New grant plea filed in area sewer plans

BULLETIN
Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City announced this morning that the sale of general obligation bonds for the Four Township Sewer Program will be delayed about 30 days.

Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer has submitted an application to the Economic Development Administration (EDA) of the U.S. Department of Commerce for a $5,647,910 grant to pay the local share of constructing sanitary sewers in the Quad-Cities area, it was disclosed yesterday.

If the total request was granted, it would now be necessary for local officials to sell general obligation bonds to pay the local share of sewer construction for the Four Township Sewer program. Hagnauer, however, termed the application "a shot in the dark" attempt for all or a portion of the money needed for the one-fourth local share of constructing the sewers. County officials are to meet with EDA officials Aug. 23 to discuss the application.

If the entire grant should be received, which is considered unlikely, sewers could be provided to Nameoki and Chouteau townships, State Park Place and the Eagle Park Acres-Cloverleaf-East Madison areas at no direct cost to the users.

Specifications for construction of sanitary sewers for Nameoki and Chouteau townships are to be released to contractors today for bidding, while members of the Madison County special sewer committee meet to discuss other possible ways to finance the local share of the construction cost.

Meanwhile, the sewer committee is continuing on plans to sell general obligation bonds to finance the local share of the construction for a sewer system from the Stallings area north through Pontoon Beach and then west through the Mitchell area.

A special service area, entitled Service Area One, is to be formed and persons in that area will be taxed annually to repay the general obligation bonds. The real estate tax method of financing the local share of the construction is considered the least expensive means, other than receiving an additional grant. Numerous residents have opposed taxation as a means of paying for the sewers. The real estate tax method is in abeyance for State Park Place (Area Two) and the Eagle Park-Cloverleaf-East Madison area (Area Three) since petitions containing the signatures of about half the residents of those areas were submitted to the county clerk opposing creation of those special service areas.

It is felt the strong opposition in Area Two would make bonds difficult to sell on the open market while Area Three residents achieved a 51 percent opposition, which, by law, defeated the creation of a special taxing district.

Meanwhile, the county has received official notification that some kind of financing plan for Areas Two and Three must be submitted to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency by Sept. 1 or the offer of a three-fourths share grant for the sewers in those areas will be terminated.

In a letter to Hagnauer, Michael P. Maury, manager of environmental programs for the IEPA, noted, "It is with reluctance that the agency takes this position. We have attempted to work with you and recognize the significant problems you have had to overcome in initiating this project."

"But decision time is here. Either all or parts of the projects move forward or they do not. If your project does not move forward, there are other counties in Illinois that will move forward expeditiously in solving their local pollution problems and they should be given an opportunity to do so," Maury noted.

Walter "Dick" Sparks, chairman of the sewer committee, said he hopes the application for the IEPA grant will Break ground for new 'auto center'

Development of a multimillion-dollar "automotive" shopping and service center in the Nameoki shopping area was begun Tuesday at groundbreaking ceremonies for the first phase of the project.

The proposed new center will be located on an L-shaped tract of four acres to the north and west of the present Granite City Car Wash facility. Access to the area presently is at 3653 Nameoki Road.

Ground was broken Tuesday by Jack Schmacker, operator of Granite City Dodge, for a car sales facility as the first unit in the proposed center.

Development and construction is being handled by the Henry Ross General Contracting Co. Ross said the ultimate cost of the project, which he expects to develop over a period of about two years, is not immediately known, but that approximately $500,000 investment will be entailed in the immediately planned construction phases.

The center will be designed to accommodate all types of business operations in the auto industry, such as service units, parts suppliers and dealer agencies.

Ron Branum, manager of the car washing facility since January and the shopping center's sales manager, said that 15 different types of services will be offered to the automotive-minded public.

"Just as regular shopping centers offer a variety of goods," Branum said, "we plan to offer a variety of goods to the consumer, all automotive oriented."

The project is expected to attract major manufacturers of products to this area. It is to include an auto body repair shop, a storage building for automobiles and campers and boats, a muffler installation business by Midas, an auto painting shop, a glass shop, a complete auto diagnostic center, a parts store, a radio-stereo store, an auto rental and leasing store, an automatic transmission firm, tires sales, auto insurance sales, and garages equipped with automobile lifts and tools for self repairs, he noted.

Branum said he feels that these and the present car wash and car care services now being offered will make automotive shopping a one-stop chore for the public.

Granite City Dodge will remain in its present location on Madison Avenue. Schmacker said the additional site will serve primarily as a lot for used car sales.

The auto firm hopes to open for business within 60 days.

Ross estimated the shopping center project will be completed within two years.

On and off the record New Press-Record computer unit latest in electronic production

The Granite City Press-Record has added one of the latest pieces of computerized equipment in a continuing effort to bring the finest newspapers to this area.

The machine is known as the Harris 1100 and is a typesetting, proofing and correcting unit designed to efficiently proof and correct or be used to originate story text and command codes prior to typesetting.

This information is entered into the memory of the terminal, which has capacities for 2,000 to 6,000 characters. Any portion of a text or news story stored in the terminal memory may be selected for display on the cathode ray tube screen for proofing or correction.

The standard 100 character display set includes full uppercase and lowercase alphabets, numerals, punctuation and symbols for typesetting functions.

The display screen can present up to 2,000 characters in either single or double-column format.

Using simple controls, the operator may modify the text of a story, overwrite the character, insert new characters or delete characters. Line and paragraph modifications of larger blocks of text with a single keystroke.

Illinois 'troubled' under British rule

(65th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)
Independence was declared by the United States in 1776, but it was more than two years later before the new nation had taken full control of the area destined to become the state of Illinois.

Upon its defeat in 1763 in the Seven Years War, France ceded the Illinois country and the remainder of her North American possessions east of the Mississippi to Great Britain. Two years later, in 1765, when British troops formally occupied Fort de Chartres, 15 miles upstream from Kaskaskia, the French flag ceased to fly on the North American mainland.

The subsequent 13-year British rule of the Illinois country was troubled.

Many influential French families crossed the Mississippi to avoid contact with the British, and difficulties arose with those who remained because of differences of background, language and religion.

As a belated solution to the problem, the British nursery in 1774 extended the formal boundaries of Quebec as well as French law and religion into the Illinois country by means of the Quebec Act.

This only antagonized traders and speculators who had their own plans for the region, and assured that by the onset of the American Revolution few residents were satisfied with their lot.

After the outbreak of hostilities, Indians with British encouragement began

Stay in budget, Chouteau told

An audit report critical of Chouteau Township governmental practices, particularly of the operation of the township Highway Department, was delivered to the Chouteau Town Board of Auditors Monday night from the R. C. Scheffel & Co., certified public accountants, Edwardsville.

The report notes, "During the course of our examination, certain questionable transactions and expenditures in the township road district funds came to our attention."

"Due to the lack of internal controls and the nature of the township's records, we were unable to satisfy ourselves as to the propriety of these transactions and expenditures."

As a result, we are unable to express an opinion on the accompanying financial statements of the township highway funds," the audit noted.

Township Highway Commissioner James Estes, after reviewing the audit report, told the Press-Record he did not feel the audit study was thorough enough and said he has some of the records in his possession the auditors say they were unable to find.

He agreed with certain portions of the audit and said he and his labor foreman are to meet to discuss means of establishing better record-keeping systems, particularly time and pay records for the highway employees.

"Expenditures are not being controlled by the budget," the report noted.

"Expenditures were made with funds for which there was no budget approval."

The board of auditors should, in the process of auditing bills requested for payment, insure that the public official has drawn his order on the proper fund in line with his budget and appropriation ordinance.

"If the orders are not in accordance with the ordinance,"

News notes

Gov. Dan Walker slashed $84.5 million in education funding for the current school year Wednesday, cutting the school aid appropriation to $1,202 billion in another effort to pry loose in the legislature a tax collection speedup program urged by the governor.

The Illinois Supreme Court has agreed to consider whether the State Elections Board should be ordered to place three legislative ethics amendments on the November election ballot, and has set a hearing Aug. 26 in Chicago. A total of 65,000 signatures have been procured on petitions supporting the amendments.

Both candidates for governor in the Illinois November election, Republican James R. Thompson and Democrat Michael J. Hoeft, yesterday called for a special legislative session to consider Gov. Dan Walker's action delaying and cutting school aid funds. A delay in veto action until the regular legislative session in November will create critical financial problems in school operations, the candidates said.

Dr. W. Delano Meriwether, director of the government's swine flu immunization program, said Wednesday that Congress has removed the last major obstacle to and the first shots should be available in late September.

Mexican Commission to mark 50th anniversary

The Mexican Honorary Commission will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding with a public dinner-dance and festival, starting Friday, Sept. 10, at the commission's hall, 1801 Spruce St.

Plans for the various activities were reviewed at a general meeting this week. Mrs. Mary Bridick, anniversary chairman, said the dinner will be served at 7 p.m. to the music of Hermanos Santacruz.

Tickets at $8 per person, which include the cost of dinner, setups, beer and entertainment, will be available to the public Aug. 21.

Persons from whom the tickets may be obtained after that date, include Otilio Valencia, Jesse Ybarra, Helen Valencia, Ted Antoff and Mrs. Bridick.

Continuous entertainment is planned on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 11 and 12, in addition to the Friday celebration, the chairman said.

Reward increased in search for SIUE guard assailant

Individual police officers at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville have donated $400 to the reward fund being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of two men wanted for the attempted murder of fellow SIUE Police Officer, James R. Hasse.

The latest contribution brings the total reward now being offered to $900. Earlier the SIUE Police Benevolent Association had established the reward fund and donated $500. The two wanted men attacked and stabbed Hasse Wednesday night, Aug. 4, on a campus parking lot. Both men are described as Caucasian between 25 to 30 years of age. One of the subjects has long, dark or black hair; a front tooth missing; no hair on his face; approximately six-foot tall and weighing 170 to 180 pounds. The second subject called "Joe" is described as about six-foot-one; 220 pounds with light, bushy "Afro" hair and possibly a mustache.

Anyone having information should contact Detective Louis Zeffoff at the SIUE Security Office, 618-692-3324.

TRESSPASSING ARRESTS BEING MADE. Madison police, in cooperation with St. Louis authorities, have begun a campaign to keep people off the old city-owned Chair of Rocks Bridge. At right, Paul Besserman, assistant superintendent of streets at Madison, shows Chief of Police Frank Dutko Tuesday morning a path worn by pedestrians and cyclists over a barricade of rock and dirt that was placed in front of the bridge on the Missouri side Monday. The rubble from the demolition of the Pruitt-Igoe housing project is being used as a landfill on the Missouri side.

Bridge poses tresspassing problem

The Madison-owned Chair of Rocks Bridge, closed since 1970, is presenting a serious problem because of trespassing and the danger of injury, and ways must be found to keep people off the bridge, Madison City Council members decided during a council session Tuesday night.

It was noted that the "No Trespassing" and "Keep Off" signs are torn down within 24 hours after they are put up. Chief of Police Frank Dutko reported that he and Paul Besserman, assistant superintendent of streets, went to the bridge Tuesday and despite a large mound of rubble from the Pruitt-Igoe demolition blocking the entrance on the Missouri side, a fresh path over the rubble had been made in less than 24 hours by cyclists and pedestrians.

"Nine arrests for trespassing were made Saturday and two on Sunday," Dutko said. "Just about every type of blockade that can be thought of has been tried. Making arrests may slow it down, but it is a question of having enough manpower to protect the city and to patrol the bridge."

It was felt that the trespassers use the bridge late at night and on weekends. It was also felt that the trespassers are young adults having "wild parties" in large numbers on the bridge.

The council members indicated that arrests and prosecution will be the best deterrent, and that the city will have to find enough money to hire extra police or security guards to avoid possible costly law suits that could occur if someone were to get hurt on the bridge.

On a motion by Third Ward Alderman Ronald Grzywacz, the council voted to have the aldermanic bridge committee consisting of Aldermen Mike Sikora, Donald Reeves, Don Broyles and Ronald Garrett meet with the mayor and chief of police to outline just what the city could do to solve the problem.

The bridge was a financial bonanza for the city of Madison for several decades, but when the new toll-free federal bridge on Interstate 270 across the Mississippi River and Chain of Rocks Canal opened, tolls were eliminated in 1967 and three years later the bridge was closed.

Recent efforts to sell the bridge have been unsuccessful. In other council action, a petition for a special use expansion permit by Tarlas Meat Co. was referred to the Housing and Zoning Board. The company desires to construct a 16 foot by 50 foot garage addition for repair and servicing of their trucks.

Alderman Grzywacz made a motion to instruct the legal department to write an ordinance for a stop sign regulating east and west traffic at Kennedy Drive and Greenwood Street.

Alderman Sikora acted as chairman in the absence of Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk who is vacationing. Aldermen absent were Second Ward Alderman Richard Kummer, First Ward Alderman Robert Don Reeves and Fifth Ward Alderman Donald Garrett.

DAMAGED AUTO. Three area youths, William Wood, 19, Donna Wood, 16, and William Hargrove, 17, were injured this week when the Volkswagen above and a car driven by Cleithil Milan collided in the 3800 block of Pontoon Road.

Donovan and his wife have four children.

"Based on the initial response to our appeal from a number of the firms involved," Donovan said, "we are forecasting that the Industrial Division goal of $345,000 will be met. This is $23,000 more than last year's industrial contributions."

The Industrial Division is scheduled to complete its drive by Sept. 24.

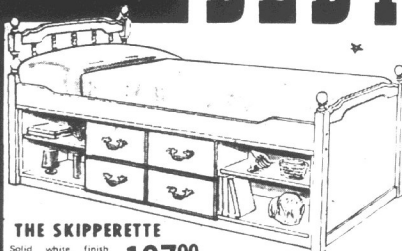

CAR HITS POLE

Charles Dickerman, 23, of 2420 Ohio Ave., was injured when he lost control of his auto turning west onto 19th Street from Niedringhaus Avenue and the car struck a light post at 12:10 a.m. Wednesday. He was charged with driving while intoxicated and not having a valid driver's license. His injuries did not require hospital treatment.

YOUTH ON BIKE HURT

Richard Bronnbauer, 18, of 1624 Cleveland Blvd., was injured when his bicycle, crossing Madison Avenue near Niedringhaus Avenue, and the car of Mary Hillman, 2800 Michigan Ave., collided at 11:35 a.m. Tuesday. Bronnbauer was treated and x-rayed at St. Elizabeth Hospital for low back pain and he was released.

Illinois high schools' biggest sports year to begin Aug. 18

Practice begins Wednesday, Aug. 18, in the nine fall sports—of the 23 in which there will be 1976-77 state tournament series—of the Illinois High School Association (IHSA). It is expected to be the greatest year for participation and competition in the 79-year history of the association.

"Through our new constitution and bylaws, which were overwhelmingly approved by the principals of the member schools last spring and which went into effect July 1, we feel the IHSA will better meet the needs of students and schools," Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh believes.

"We are confident the association will reach its goal of providing opportunities for boys and girls to compete athletically. We estimate more than 300,000 young people will represent their schools in interscholastic competition this year. We will conduct state tournaments or meets in 11 sports for boys and 12 sports for girls, including our first girls' state basketball tournament.

"More than 840,000 fans attended games in the 1976 two-class boys' state basketball tournament series and we are hopeful we can reach the 900,000 plateau this coming winter. We think fans also will be attracted to the games in the girls' state basketball tournament series.

"We enter our third year of football playoffs for boys and the state volleyball tournament for girls. Predicated upon the response statewide, we are confident these two programs will become even more successful."

Fitzhugh reiterated the Association's stance regarding the manner in which its activities are to be conducted. "Even though our programs have expanded greatly in recent years, so too has the trend toward unsportsmanlike behavior on the part of players, coaches and fans," he observed.

"The association has taken steps since last winter, when problems developed statewide and threatened to destroy the very fiber of competition between schools, to re-educate all concerned—school administrators, coaches, players, game officials and fans—of the ethics of competition and the necessary responsibilities and requirements of good sportsmanship."

"It will continue to do everything within its power to foster wholesome, enthusiastic participation and competition."

"At the same time, IHSA bylaws now empower the board of directors with authority to penalize those who do not abide by the rules, those who abuse the privilege of participation, or those who would interfere with the proper conduct of interscholastic activities."

The sportsmanship bylaws stipulate it is the clear obligation of students, school staff, boards of education and all other official representatives of member schools in all interscholastic relationships to practice and promote the highest principles of sportsmanship and ethics of competition.

It is the obligation of the member school to maintain proper crowd control at all interscholastic activities.

The IHSA board can penalize any member school, any of whose official representatives or spectators may be adjudged upon competent evidence to have violated such obligations.

In addition, students participating in interscholastic athletic contests in violation of the bylaws, or other persons found to be in gross violation of the ethics of competition or principles of good sportsmanship, may be barred by the board of directors from interscholastic athletic contests.

The new bylaws encourage principals of member schools to submit a "Special Report Form" to the executive secretary involving any game official who exhibits: (1) ignorance of the rules; (2) errors in judgment or (3) improper conduct at the contest.

At the same time, IHSA policy requires game officials to file on Special Report Forms reports of unsportsmanlike actions or gross violations of the ethics of competition by member schools and/or official representative (including fans).

Many of the state's conferences, working with their school boards and through the school administrators of the conference schools, have reaffirmed their intentions of upholding the IHSA bylaws concerning sportsmanship and the responsibilities of game officials.

The Des Plaines Valley League, for example, sent the following instructions to all men and women who will work as game officials for contests involving schools from the league:

"To all officials: "The principals of the Des Plaines Valley League reaffirm that interscholastic athletic competition must be conducted in a way that tends to build good sportsmanship in young men and women. If organized athletics cannot do this, they have no place in our educational programs or in our league."

"We shall not support a 'win at any price' philosophy, nor we accept the fact that the nature of competition dictates that there will be one winner and one loser."

"You, as officials, are instrumental in furthering this philosophy as you carry out your responsibilities in the games which you officiate."

Recognizing the pressures that surround officials in athletic contests, the principals and athletic directors in the Des Plaines Valley League insist that you penalize, according to the rules, all player or coach behavior unsportsmanlike in nature.

"This includes any flagrant action by player or coach that detracts from your ability to control the contest or that encourages unruly crowd behavior. We expect you to call these fouls with the same businesslike decorum that you call other fouls."

"The principals and athletic directors have charged their coaches with the main responsibility for assuring good sportsmanship for players and fans alike, and may contrary action in dispute of your judgment must be penalized. IHSA rules governing and describing such infractions by coaches and players are clear; we wish to reaffirm your enforcing them."

"We believe that this reaffirmation gives officials the support necessary to demand sportsmanlike conduct in all athletic contests; therefore, any official who fails to penalize obvious unsportsmanlike conduct by player or coach will be reported to the assignment chairman with the understanding that the official will not be reassigned to the league."

New state tournament series scheduled this school year are girls' archery in the fall, girls' gymnastics and girls' badminton in the winter and girls' basketball, which will conclude with the first girls' state basketball tournament the weekend of April 12.

The girls' state meet will be held at Horton Fieldhouse on the campus of Illinois State University. More than 600 schools are expected to send teams into the first level of girls' basketball tournament competition.

At the same time, the boys' cross country meet series will be conducted under the standard IHSA two-class format, with both the Class A (for schools with enrollments of 751 or less) and Class AA (for schools with enrollments of 751 or more) scheduled for Detroit Park in Peoria Saturday.

From the second week in October until the conclusion of the final spring sport, state tournament, IHSA schools will be involved in state tournament and meet series competition during 25 of those 32 weeks.

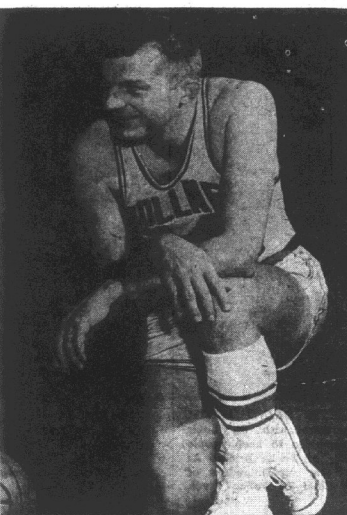

The competition by season will be:

FALL—Boys Football, Boys Golf, Boys Soccer, Boys Cross Country, Girls Archery, Girls Golf, Girls Swimming, Girls Field Hockey and Girls Tennis.

WINTER—Boys Basketball,

CAGE STAR RETURNS. Former Granite City player Andy Phillips returns to Lincoln Place where he was raised, to attend the annual homecoming during the weekend. Phillips, shown at left during weekend and at right as an American Basketball Association player, recalls his participation in 1940 with the Granite City High School state championship basketball team.

Lincoln Place welcomes former resident and pro athlete

Andy Phillips, once a member of Granite City's only high school state basketball championship team in 1940, visited his hometown during the weekend to participate in the annual homecoming held at the Lincoln Place Community Center.

Tabbed as the fighting sons of Armenian, Bulgarian, German, Yugoslav and Magyar parents, the 1940 GCHS squad won 29 of 34 games during the 1939-40 cage season under Coach Bryan Boszarth.

Phillips was a guard for the Warrior squad. Other members included Evon Parsaghan, Dan Etimoff, George Gages, Andy Hagopian and others.

Granite City beat Moline 41-38 and then Herrin 24-22 in the last two games of the state finals at Champaign for the state title. Parsaghan's basket with 12 seconds left to play in the championship game gave the local squad the victory.

From 1940 to 1943 Phillips was honored as an all-American and named to the Big 10 all-time player list by the Associated Press for his outstanding performance as a member of the University of Illinois basketball Whiz Kids, a team which went undefeated three straight years and broke at least four conference records in the process.

Phillips later played with several professional squads, including the 1957 world champion Boston Celtics.

He coached the St. Louis Hawks squad in 1957-58 and was honored by being named to the national and Illinois basketball halls of fame.

Phillips is presently a supervisor in the Riverside County, Calif., probation office, a position he has held for the past 13 years.

He compares the 1975 Venice Red Devils state championship team with that of the 1940 Granite City titlist.

"Neither school was blessed with a real tall player to control rebounds off the boards and dunk the ball," said Phillips.

"And in this day and age, that good if a team has average height players who can maneuver, shoot from the outside and handle the ball properly."

"I believe a successful team is one which possesses speed, the ability to drive down the court, execute successful passes, and utilize little players to keep pressure applied with a good full-court press," he explained.

Phillips said the accurate outside shooter from the top of the key, or from anywhere around the circle, is more and more becoming a very important ingredient in making a championship caliber basketball team."

Grid season opens Sept. 10

Coach Tom Wyrostek's GCHS North Warriors will be the first Quad-City area high school football team to open the 1976 grid season, playing at Cahokia on Sept. 10.

GCHS South, headed by Stan Wojcik and Madison both open their seasons on Sept. 11.

South's Warriors at St. Louis DeSmet and Madison's Trojans at St. Genevieve, Mo.

Coach Wyrostek's Steelers have posted a three-season record of 18-10-1, having earned their way into the state playoffs in 1973, the school's first year of existence.

Other than Cahokia, North's schedule is: Sept. 17, Collinsville here; Sept. 24, Wood River here; Oct. 1, at Roxana; Oct. 16, St. Louis DeSmet here; Oct. 23, Belleville Althoff here; Oct. 29, at GCHS South; and Nov. 5, Mattoon here.

South's Warriors under Wojcik's two-year tenure, has a 5-13 mark and ended the season last year with a 5-4 record.

Following the opening game at DeSmet, South plays: Sept. 18, O'Fallon here; Sept. 24, at Belleville East; Oct. 1, Cahokia here; Oct. 8, at Edwardsville; Oct. 15, Collinsville here; Oct. 22, Alton here; Oct. 29, GCHS North here; Nov. 5, at Pattonville, Mo.

Madison will open the season with a new head coach, yet to be named, guiding the team. The Trojans were 5-6 on the season last year.

After the St. Genevieve contest on Sept. 11, Madison faces: Sept. 18, Warrenton, Mo.; Sept. 21, at Eldorado; Oct. 2, at Columbia; Oct. 9, Marquette of Alton here; Oct. 16, at Assumption of East St. Louis; Oct. 23, Washington, Mo. here; Oct. 29, at Mater Dei of Breese, and Nov. 6, Duplo here.

Kwiatkowski signs for SIUE track

David Kwiatkowski, a standout track star at Granite City High School North, has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

SIUE track coach Jack Whitted made the announcement Monday.

His track coach at Granite City, Harry Lang, said, "Dave not only is an excellent track man but is also a fine football player. His best track event is the high hurdles. He posted a 14.6 time in that event this past season."

"He is 6'2" and weighs 180 pounds. His exceptionally long legs will readily help him to adapt to the college high hurdles. In addition, he's an extremely hard worker," Lang noted.

Said Whitted, "I'm pleased that David decided to enroll at SIUE because, in addition to being a fine athlete he's also a very good student. He graduated 103rd out of his class of 344 this June."

His prep coach also said that Kwiatkowski ran the 330 low hurdles in 40.1 and ran on the North 400, 880 and mile relay teams.

Athletic exams start tomorrow

Boys' physical examinations will be given by the Granite City School District athletic department tomorrow and Saturday for athletes desiring to participate in fall sports at GCHS North and GCHS South.

Sophomore, junior and senior athletes of Madison High School will be given examinations at 8 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18, at the school's gymnasium.

Required physical examinations of students entering high school from junior high schools will receive certificates for freshman athletes in Granite City and Madison.

Tomorrow's Granite City athletic department examinations will begin at 5 p.m. at the North High gymnasium for athletes desiring to participate in fall sports at GCHS North and GCHS South.

An athletic department spokesman said sophomore, junior and senior athletes of either Granite City High School may report for exams on either of the two dates, and that all proceeds derived from a 50 per cent examination fee will be donated to the Granite City Athletic Trust.

A Madison High School spokesman reported that physical examinations for football and cross country athletes for that school's sophomore, junior and senior grade levels will be conducted Aug. 18 with no fee required.

Hepatitis has various causes

By WILLIAM J. GOLDWAG, M.D.

Q. I have an uncle who lives with me who recently got hepatitis. I have two children 12 and 7 who used to play with him before he went to the hospital. I asked the doctor about us all taking gamma globulin shots, but he said that his type of hepatitis couldn't be prevented by the shots. How many kinds of hepatitis are there? Even if there's a chance it would help, I'd rather take the shot.

A. There are a variety of causes for hepatitis but not all will be preventable by gamma globulin. The two most common varieties are probably virus caused and used to be called infectious hepatitis. The first is now being called type A and has a short incubation period measured in days or weeks. The second is type B and has an incubation period of weeks to months. Type A is transmitted more commonly by close contact with someone with the disease, but is not contagious after two or three weeks from the onset. This variety is prevented by gamma globulin given to close contacts as soon after exposure as possible. The type B variety is spread mainly by injection of blood or blood products or contaminated needles. There is still uncertainty about whether gamma globulin will prevent this type since there is no harm in giving it and some good might result, it is just as well given.

Hepatitis caused by cirrhosis of the liver after long-time alcohol intake is not benefited by gamma globulin. A new variety of hepatitis occurring more frequently now is that caused by sensitivity to certain drugs. These occur only in certain susceptible individuals and perhaps even then only under special conditions.

Such commonly used drugs as tetracycline, oral contraceptives, and energizers used in treatment of major mental illness, have all been known to cause some interference with liver function in some people.

36 in golf tourney final round

Thirty-six amateur golfers will take to the links at Arlington Golf Course at 1 p.m. Sunday to compete in four categories during final rounds of the sixth annual Granite City Park District tournament.

The players competed earlier this week in qualifying rounds on the 18-hole, par-72 course in which 14-year-old Lee Heubner had a low 79, placing him in Class A competition.

Heading the remaining three classes are: John Blasingame and Vernon Lockridge, both with an 87, Class B; Ron Corey, a 94, Class C; and Joe Fedora, a 100, Class D.

Tournament winners will be determined by combining qualifying rounds and final round scores with a champion and runner-up in each class being awarded trophies.

Various attendance prizes will also be given.

Issue grid gear starting Friday

With the first football practice session officially set for Wednesday, Aug. 18 on statewide high school grid irons, issuance of playing equipment for the 1976 season starts this weekend in the Quad-City area.

At GCHS South, varsity players will be given equipment from 9 a.m. to noon and again from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. both tomorrow and Saturday.

On Monday, sophomores are to be in the school's gymnasium to receive equipment in two sessions, at the same times as the varsity schedule. On Tuesday, Aug. 17, freshman players' equipment will be handed out during the two time periods.

GCHS North will start issuing equipment Monday from 6 to 8 p.m. for varsity players. Freshman and sophomore gear will be given out in the school's gymnasium at the same times on Tuesday, Aug. 17.

Madison High School has not set a day or times for issuing of playing equipment.

Close point races at Tri-City Speedway

While late model stock car driver Bill Myers of East Alton continues his campaign at 7:30 p.m. Saturday to wrest that division's point lead from defending champion Russ Wallace, three Granite City sportsman class drivers are battling for top positions in that classes point standings at Tri-City Speedway.

St. Louisian Kris Krohn heads the sportsman list with 2,315 points, followed by Dean Aerne with 2,065, Chuck Milam with

Inter-City title decided Sunday

Mercer Mortuary enters this Sunday's final doubleheader of the season leading the Illinois Inter-City Baseball League with a 21-7 record and with last night's league all-star game win to its credit.

Mercer won 8-7 in 11 innings. Mercer plays at East Alton Fairlax Sunday.

With the East Alton Vans (20-8 record) and Highland-Pierson (19-9)-breathing down Mercer's neck for the 1976 league title, Mercer is facing the possibility of sweeping both ends of its twinned to clinch the league title.

The Vans will be at Panama (12-16) for a doubleheader Sunday, and the Highland squad takes on Thomas (2-26) at Wilson Park Fairlax with a 10-18 mark. All games start at 1 p.m.

deadlocked the contest at 7-7 on Pat Peterson's solo homer in the seventh.

Two men reached base on walks for Mercer in the bottom of the 11th before Ken Schaeke loaded the bases with a bunt single. Vic Reznack then singled in the winning run.

Mercer needed 11 innings to win the all-star contest played at Pierson over a team composed of players selected from the other seven squads.

The all-stars scored once in the opening inning and three times in each the third and fourth innings for a 7-2 lead.

Batting last, Mercer scored four runs in the fourth on the strength of Jack Scarborough's bases-loaded triple, and then

State champion Petrillo team in regional tourney

Granite City's Petrillo Produce, victor for a fourth straight year in Illinois women's state softball competition, seeks a first-place finish in regional competition at Fond du Lac, Wis., over other championship teams and runnersup.

Petrillo, coached by Don Detelring and Marvin Brokaw, had its best finish in the Wisconsin tournament last year, taking runnerup honors.

Though regional action opens tomorrow, Petrillo will not play until 9:30 a.m. Saturday when it meets the Milwaukee champion.

A win Saturday morning would advance the local squad into a 7-30 p.m. game Saturday.

Little Rascal team assignment

The Granite City Little Rascal Boys Football Club has postponed this Saturday's pre-season practice session until Tuesday, Aug. 17, with time and place to be announced later.

Wayne Angle, club president, noted all first-year players and one of their parents should attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. to be assigned to a team, at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin avenues.

3 concerts by St. Louis Symphony highlight upcoming presentations at the Mississippi River Festival

The St. Louis Symphony Orchestra tonight will present its first of a series of three concerts in four days at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Tonight's 8:30 program, conducted by Leonard Salkin, will have Abbey Simon as pianist in a program that features Rachmaninoff's "Capriccio Bohemien," Opus 12; "Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini," and others.

Simon is one of the select few musicians who have successfully made the transition from child prodigy to mature artist. He has toured extensively around the world, following his original success as a child of 8 as a student at the Curtis Institute of Music on a scholarship in both composition and piano.

As a special addition, the Alton High School Marching 100 Band will play prior to the Symphony program. The Alton band recently participated in the Bicentennial Parade in Philadelphia.

Friday is an open date at the festival. The St. Louis Symphony will again perform on Saturday, Aug. 14, with guest pianist Ruth Slenczynska. The evening's performance will feature works by Mendin, Saint-Saens, and Stravinsky. Ruth Slenczynska, an internationally-recognized pianist, is artist-in-residence at SIUE.

She gave her first recital at age 3, made her Berlin debut at 5, her Paris debut at 7, and gave a U.S. concert at 8. She has been featured in numerous magazines and books, and has many recordings to her credit, including a recent "Chopin Etudes, Opus 10."

Prior to the Symphony performance, the Scott Air Force Base Band will perform at the festival site, starting at 7:30 p.m.

On Sunday the Symphony will conclude its weekend of activities at the festival with a special performance of the concert version of Porgy and Bess.

Leonard Van Camp will direct the Festival Chorus and Franz Allers will conduct the orchestra. Betty Jones will be the soprano for the performance, and Robert Moseley will be the baritone.

Betty Jones, who has appeared at most of the world's major halls, has performed in more than 20 operatic roles and many major oratoria works. Moseley, another well-known vocalist, began with the San Francisco Opera and since has

A child-folk-rock prodigy, Janis Ian has managed to mature successfully into a complete and very talented artist, whose songwriting efforts are performed often by contemporaries like Roberta Black, Cher, Joan Baez and others.

Also on Tuesday, the two-day annual Mississippi River Festival Regional Craftsman Fair will open. The fair will take place on the MRF site, and feature arts, crafts, and creations of all sorts by representatives from at least five states. The fair will open each day at noon.

Festival Director Lyle Ward reminded Festival-goers that under a new policy no bottles or cans are allowed at the Festival site.

JANIS IAN, popular singer of "Seventeen," "Society's Child," and other hits, will appear at the Mississippi River Festival with the Richie Furay Band. She also is a talented songwriter whose songs are widely sung by top female vocalists.

Hayes takes over downtown GC book store

The former Graham's Business Products store at 1907 Delmar Ave., will continue in operation under new management, even though the former owners have retired, Charles Hayes, the new operator, announced Monday.

Hayes, who also operates Downtown Drugs next door, said he will change the name to Downtown Book Store and Supplies, but will continue with basically the same operation started by Graham's.

"We hope to maintain the same tradition of fine service to the Quad-Cities which the Grahams established," Hayes said.

He noted the store will continue to offer paperback books, office supplies, magazines and newspapers, films, film processing, cigarettes, candy, money orders and other items which were available under the former owners.

Kathy Mathes has been named as manager of the store, which will be open daily from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sunday mornings. Questions may be directed to the manager at 452-0244, Hayes said.

Pontoon Beach Lions get state charter

The Pontoon Beach Lions Club has received its Articles of Incorporation as provided by the General Not-For-Profit Corporation Act, according to Robert Carroll, club secretary.

Carroll said that the corporation papers were issued by the office of Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett and have been recorded in the recorder of deeds office at Edwardsville.

Donald D. Patrick, club president said "The Not-For-Profit Corporation Act means two things: one, that all monies received by the club must be spent for charitable purposes or for the club itself; and two, that the club's treasury will be liable for state audits at a minimum of once a year or at the state auditor's request."

"This will definitely assure the tight control of the club's treasury. I don't know why this wasn't done in the past, but this action is part of a continued effort by myself and by other active Lion members to reorganize the club procedures."

Patrick made application to the secretary of state's office for the charter in early June when he was elected president. Purpose for the charter as stated on the application is, "To promote the general improvement and welfare of its members and of the community, and social activities only as the same may be incidental to the charitable purpose of the corporation."

Club Secretary Bob Carroll announced the new memberships of Richard McIntosh, a Pontoon Beach police officer, and Mike Briggs, a member of the Long Lake Fire Department.

State fair opens today

A host of exhibitors, performers, animals and fairs converged on the fairgrounds at Springfield today as the Illinois State Fair opened its gates for an 11-day run.

Freedom Fair '76 opened officially at noon when Gov. Dan Walker cut the ceremonial red-white-and-blue ribbon at the main gate. The fair already was in progress, however, with judging, stage shows and exhibits at 8 a.m.

Among today's activities will be the Society Horse Show in the Coliseum. Quarter Horse Racing Finals will be part of the evening grandstand attraction which also will feature performances by Pee Wee King, Minnie Pearl, Jean Shepard and the Illinois Country Opry. With a host of new attractions, the fair has been expanded to 11 days this year from the traditional 10. Thus the opening day parade is scheduled Friday beginning at 9:30 a.m.

One new attraction is Heritage Square, an 80,000-square foot tract across from the grandstand which celebrates the state's ethnic heritage. Thirty-four booths featuring food and arts and crafts from Europe, South America and the Far East will make Heritage Square an exotic bazaar. Dancing and singing by various ethnic groups from around the state will provide entertainment throughout the fair.

Two other new exhibits will examine areas with vital implications for the future. The Aviation Tent will feature antique, home-built, corporate and military aircraft, while the Energy Tent looks at solar energy and energy conservation.

Another first-time exhibit is the traveling photographic display, "Forgotten Contributions: Women in Illinois History," in the early Illinois Building. In honor of the nation's 200th birthday, competition for Bicentennial quilts and desserts will be held in the Exposition Building.

A full lineup of top performers follow the Nashville headliners on the first night of the fair, including Seals and Crofts, Friday, Tammy Wynette and the Statler Brothers, Saturday and Three Dog Night, Aug. 16.

Also appearing will be Waylon Jennings and the Wailors, Jessi Colter and Tompall and his Outlaw Band, Aug. 17; The Osmonds, Aug. 18; Neil Sedaka, Aug. 19; Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty, Aug. 20; Mary Travers and Blood, Sweat & Tears, Aug. 21 and Roger Miller, Aug. 22.

Box seats for two nights have already sold out, according to Bill Barrett, ticket office manager. Although boxes are no longer available for Tammy Wynette and the Statler Brothers or either performance by The Osmonds (at 7 and 9 p.m. Aug. 18), Barrett said there are still plenty of good $5 reserved seats and other seats for both nights.

Tickets for all performances are $6, $5, $4 and $2, except the Aug. 12 show, when tickets are $3, $2 and $1. The ticket office is on the first floor of the grandstand. For ticket information call (217) 782-1776.

The grandstand will be a hub of activity in the daytime also with a schedule of tractor pulls, harness racing and USAC auto racing.

The power of the tractors will generate excitement in the State Championship Tractor Pull Friday and Saturday. The 14 classes of tractors range from the five-pound micro-mini to the 14,000-pound stock, including hot rod classes that have been clocked at 65 miles per hour on the highway.

An estimated $801,000 is at stake when five days of harness racing begin Monday, Aug. 16. The Review Futurity on Thursday, Aug. 19, is considered a preview to the prestigious Hambleton to be run at Du Quoin later in the month.

Hudsons at Deaf Convention

Leon and Mary Lou Hudson of Granite City, have returned from the National Convention of the National Association of the Deaf in Houston, Tex.

The convention drew more than a thousand deaf people from across the nation. The Hudsons attended the convention as observers rather than delegates, but both were active at the convention in behalf of bringing the National Convention to St. Louis in 1982, and also in the establishment of a second national office in the St. Louis area.

Mrs. Hudson attended as a representative of the Metropolitan area deaf in behalf of the convention site in St. Louis. The convention is held every two years and competition for the convention site has been made much more competitive by the annual Miss Deaf America Pageant which is held in conjunction with the event.

Hudson represented the St. Louis Region and Growth Commission in the bid for the second national office to be located in this area.

Highlights of the convention included a Rally Night, with deaf talent providing a variety of entertainment, and Hawaiian Luau featuring a water show. Other highlights were workshops on development of a Model State Plan of social services, on Awareness of Deaf-Blind Parent Professional Workshop, and a workshop given by SIGN (Sign Instructors Guidance Network), a new organization sponsored by the National Association of the Deaf. Mrs. Hudson participated in some of the SIGN workshop.

The most impressive event at the convention was the presentation of the Miss Deaf America Pageant. It featured contestants from 17 states who competed in evening gown, talent, and other events. The Miss Deaf America Pageant was videotaped in its entirety by the National PBS Network, and is to be sent to local stations in September as a one hour special. BURGLARY ON ADAMS

A color television, a tape player, a radio, a turntable, four speakers and about 100 records were stolen during a burglary at the home of Mike Johnson, 2465 Adams St., which was discovered at 11:50 p.m. Wednesday. Six chairs also were removed from outside the house. Entry was gained by forcing open a rear door.

remember that the girls presenting the talent are all deaf — they do not hear the music they dance or sing to, Mrs. Hudson added.

harrassing American settlements in Kentucky. From there, a young militia officer named George Rogers Clark concluded that the best defense against these attacks was control of the Illinois villages.

After approval by officials in Virginia, he led 175 volunteers to Kaskaskia; on July 4, 1778, he took the town without bloodshed. Cahokia and Vincennes, the other important settlements, quickly surrendered. In response to these aggressions, the British detached an expedition southward from Detroit and retook Vincennes.

Assuming the offensive again, Clark decided to counter-attack while the British relaxed behind the seeming protection of endless winter flood waters. After an exhausting march through mud and freezing water, Clark surprised the garrison at Vincennes and forced its surrender, leaving the Illinois country solely in American possession. Virginia consolidated the conquest by establishing the Illinois country as one of its own counties in December 1778. Between January 1782, when county status officially ended, and the creation of the Northwest Territory by the Ordinance of 1787, Illinois was without official government. Governor St. Clair of the Northwest Territory visited Kaskaskia in 1790 to establish the forms of local government to supplement those remnants of Virginia county government which still existed. Government was minimal and unsatisfactory. During this period, a number of men who had served with Clark did settle their families at Bellefontaine in present-day Monroe County. While others followed their example, by 1800 there were only 2,500 inhabitants in Illinois, approximately half of them French and the other half American. It was in that year that the Territory of Indiana was established including the Illinois country within its boundaries. Illinois became a territory in its own right nine years later and a state in 1818.

Upholds grant for police

A legal ruling which will enable Nameoki Township to aid in establishing a volunteer police department in Nameoki Precincts 3, 5 and 11, has been issued by the township's attorney, H. Carl Runge Jr. and will be considered by the Nameoki Town Board of Auditors at a special meeting Monday night.

The township has included a $9,600 appropriation in its federal revenue sharing budget to be used to purchase a police car, uniforms, radios, guns and other necessary equipment for the Nameoki Volunteer Police Department, to be operated under the control of the Madison County Sheriff's Department.

Opponents of the proposed department cited state law which prohibits townships or other governmental bodies from giving grants to not-for-profit corporations in existence less than one year.

Runge was asked to study the law and issued his legal opinion this week. He said the officers of the volunteer police department first met and began their training with the sheriff's department prior to Sept. 1, 1975, and incorporated as a not-for-profit corporation on Jan. 6, 1976.

He noted "community service associations" in existence more than one year also may receive grants, and gave the opinion that the volunteer policemen became a community service association about Sept. 1, 1975. Therefore, Runge said, the township may issue a grant from federal revenue sharing to the Nameoki Volunteer Police Department as a community

Communication industry facing a 'quiet crisis'

There is a quiet crisis in the communications industry of which more people need to be aware, according to Kenneth L. Evers, manager of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. office in Granite City.

Evers, a past district governor of Rotary and a member of the Granite City club, explained pending Federal Communication

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD Thurs., Aug. 12, 1976 Page 11

Commission (FCC) policies that would, in Evers' opinion, hurt the home users of telephones. Evers spoke to the Tuesday noon meeting of the club in the YMCA.

Evers said the FCC is trying to promote "competition" and arbitrarily divide the market, which in effect would cause a rise in service cost in many areas. Evers noted that since 1934 the telephone industry has tried for a telephone price at a rate that most people can afford. A tentative joint meeting between the GC Rotary and the Madison-Venice Rotary has been scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 26, to hear Edul Jee, of India, past director of Rotary International.

INJURED ARE PLACED by Army medics and volunteers into a twin-prop Chinook helicopter with a capacity of more than 40 persons. Small and large 'copters were pressed into service for the evacuation. U.S. 34 below the Park Terrace Motel, doubling as a helipad, is at a higher elevation here than in most sections of the 29-mile-long winding canyon. Houses in the center of picture have been torn from foundations and left on the hillside when flood waters receded. Motels and restaurants at lower elevations west of this point were swept away with their occupants, including Mrs. Etta Marie Carter, 57 of Belleville. Her husband, Emery, 64, is among the missing.

WELCOME SIGHT INDEED is the arrival of U.S. Army medics in their hospital-equipped 'copter on Sunday, Aug. 1, the day after the flash flood inundated Big Thompson Canyon, Colo. Many injured persons and refugees gathered at the Park Terrace Motel, where Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Walton, 18 Lakeview Drive, were safe from the flood but marooned in the canyon's center until evacuated Aug. 3. The Army established a helipad about 150 yards from the motel to airlift those hurt and later take out uninjured persons. The three pictures were taken by the Waltons.

Paper ballots election possibility in November

There is a possibility that voting in Madison County for the November election may have to be on paper ballots, and election officials are beginning to shudder at the thought.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles told the Press-Record Tuesday that the county's voting machines have only six columns and seven parties have filed to be on the ballot.

Sen. Eugene McCarthy also has filed petitions for presidential candidacy, but Miss Bowles said she does not believe his bid will be allowed, "since the law requires the president and vice-president candidates run as a team and Sen. McCarthy has no vice-presidential running mate."

Even without McCarthy, the county still has a problem—seven parties and only six columns on the voting machine.

Miss Bowles declined to speculate what she will do if all seven parties are certified by the State Board of Elections to be on the ballot, but said she is "looking for alternatives."

She said she and Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer plan to meet with state election officials to get some kind of ruling which will enable the machines to be used.

While she would not specify them, she said there are several possibilities being considered. "I'll tell you one thing. I am planning to use the voting machines this November," Miss Bowles stated.

DESOLATE CEDAR COVE in Big Thompson Canyon, Colo. Once a snug residential area, only pieces of houses pushed against trees remain on Aug. 1, after a 12-foot wall of water swept downriver and through the cove the previous night. Most of those caught here by the flash flood were killed or are missing. Pinnacles of boulders are visible in the receded river, foreground, which cut a new channel closer to the dwellings. The stone foundation of a former house can be seen at left center. Over 100 bodies have been recovered, mostly campers and tourists, but many still are unaccounted for after the July 31 disaster.

Recommend two zoning permits

The Madison County Board will be asked Wednesday, Aug. 18, to approve two requests for the placement of mobile homes in Quad-Cities area townships. The county's zoning board of appeals conducted on-site public hearings at the two locations and recommended approval of both requests.

Willie B. Irene, James Earl, and Dorothy J. Taylor are requesting a special use permit to place a 12 by 40 foot unit at 108 Booker St., Viaduct Addition number three, which is in an R-4 single family residential district of Venice Township.

R. E. Moran and Robert Forshee are requesting a permit to place a 14x65 foot mobile home at 2134 Alton Ave. in an R-4 district of Nameoki Township.

The zoning board recommends both permits be granted not to exceed five years and for the sole occupancy of the families requesting the permits.

Rites conducted for Mrs. Eugia Hagood

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Boone County, Mo., for Mrs. Eugia Hagood, 84, of St. Louis, formerly of 2953 E. 25th St. She died at 7:45 a.m. Monday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Survivors include her husband, Clyde Hagood, and a daughter, Mrs. Mae Aubuchon of St. Louis.

In the arm Sunday at 5:40 p.m. following an argument near Weaver and Douglas streets, Venice.

Area mechanics ok pact

Mechanics at auto dealerships in Madison and St. Clair Counties returned to work Tuesday, ending a strike and lockout which began Aug. 2.

In voting at the Labor Temple in Granite City Monday, the mechanics decided by one vote, 174 to 173, to approve a contract offer made by the Madison-St. Clair County Automotive Association to Machinists District 9.

Under the terms of the agreement, the mechanics will receive a pay increase of $1.68 per hour over three years. They currently earn $6.32 per hour. Barry Birger, president of the automotive association, termed the contract a good one which everyone can live with, but Gary Knoth, business representative for District 9, said the agreement was a very unpopular one which carried only minor language differences from the offer originally turned down by the membership.

On the Missouri side of the river, about 2,000 mechanics remain on strike, unable to agree to a new contract.

Armed violence charged

James C. Stuart, 20, of 2139 Lee Ave., was arrested at his home at 3 a.m. Tuesday and charged with armed violence. It is alleged Stuart fired two shots from a 12-gauge shotgun at a parked car with two men in it in the 2500 block of Lincoln Avenue at 11:25 p.m. Monday.

The men were not injured, but one shot shattered the rear window of the car. Harold Case, 46, of 1625 Moro Ave., said he and Jim McMann, 2536 Lincoln Ave., were sitting in a parked car discussing a fishing trip when a blue Pontiac drove into a driveway nearby and the driver got out, opened the trunk of the Pontiac and took out a gun. Two shots were fired at the parked car, one breaking the rear window. Case then drove away and went to the Granite City Police Department to report the incident.

Officers went to the neighborhood and questioned residents. Jerry McKeahan, 2536 Lincoln Ave., said he heard the shots and looked out his front door to see a man with a shotgun in the driveway next door.

He alleged the man yelled at him, "Get back in or I'll blow your head off, and don't call the cops."

Claude Martin, 2538 Lincoln Ave., told officers the car was in his driveway when the gun was fired and the man approached him and tried to get him to take the shotgun. When Martin refused to accept the gun, the man fled to his car and drove east on Lincoln Avenue with his car's lights turned off, officers were told.

From the descriptions of several witnesses, officers attempted to contact Stuart for questioning. Stuart called the police station at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, but refused to tell officers where he was, it was alleged.

At 3 a.m. Tuesday, Stuart again called police and told them he was at home and police could pick him up, it was reported. He was arrested without incident and was taken to the Granite City Jail.

'Bill of rights' for nursing home care

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Director Office of Consumer Affairs

"But I don't want to empty bed pans!"

If someone you know was expected to do such a chore or follow a prescribed regimen while living in a nursing home, you should know that new federal regulations are now doing away with such practices.

Health, Education and Welfare officials have been developing a patients' bill of rights for nursing homes.

Comments received by HEW from consumers indicated a need for such a regulation to protect the dignity of the patients.

The bill of rights for skilled nursing facilities (SNFs) which provides around-the-clock nursing services to patients sick enough to need them and entitles them to receive federal funds through Medicare and Medicaid programs — became effective in December 1974.

Similar rights for residents for intermediate care facilities (ICFs) — instructions for patients (including the mentally retarded) who need more than custodial care but who do not need the same level of care that SNFs must provide — are in effect as of June 1976.

These patients' rights apply to all residents if the nursing homes receive federal funds through Medicare and Medicaid programs — and most of these homes receive some federal funds.

Therefore, having Medicaid or Medicare patients in the nursing homes has the practical effect of providing a bill of rights for all patients.

The new regulations provide that:

News notes

Illinois unemployment rose during July by a tenth of a percentage point to 6.9 per cent, according to the Illinois Department of Labor. Decatur had the highest rate in the state (8.3 per cent), and Bloomington-Normal had the lowest (4 per cent).

More than $5 million has been granted Madison and St. Clair Counties under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. Madison County will receive $1,466,710 and St. Clair County $4,132,296 for continuation of educational services for children living in low income areas and state-operated or supported institutions for neglected or delinquent children.

Public hearings will be conducted Aug. 16 and 17 by the Bi-State Development Agency on the agency's application for a $16.4 million grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration. The grant would be matched with $4 million from Missouri and Illinois to buy 194 new buses, two-way radio equipment, fare boxes, bus shelters and equipment.

Traffic fatalities in Illinois during July increased by 24 per cent over the corresponding month of 1975. A total of 220 persons were killed in Illinois last month as a result of 198 accidents, the Department of Transportation reported. There were 178 deaths in July 1975.

Gov. Dan Walker has announced a $12 million safety program designed to reduce railroad train-vehicle accidents and fatalities at grade crossings in Illinois. The number of protected crossings will be increased along with a program of public education of rail crossing safety.

HURT IN ACCIDENT
James E. Johnson, 20, of the Tower Lake Apartments, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, was injured when his southbound car struck the parked car of Don Hunter, 2411 Washington Ave., St. Washington Avenue and Edwards Street this week. Johnson, who was charged with reckless driving, was released from St. Elizabeth Hospital Aug. 11 after emergency room treatment for two broken teeth and swelling to his lower lip.

Howlett pledges concerted effort for more federal grants to state

Illinois is last among the 50 states in per capita grant funds received from the federal government, Michael J. Howlett, Democratic candidate for governor, said during the weekend.

Addressing the Sterling Chamber of Commerce and Industry legislative meeting luncheon in the Emerald Hill Country Club in Sterling, Ill., Howlett said Illinois cannot depend on Washington to solve our economic problems.

"Federal policy has been helping other states more than ours," said Howlett. Illinois has been putting more money into the federal treasury than it gets back.

"For every dollar in taxes we send from Illinois to Washington we are receiving back only 72 cents in federal spending and aid."

"In 1975 that made a difference of $5.29 billion — our own balance of payments deficit."

"Illinois is 50th on the list of states in per capita grant funds received from the federal government."

"As Governor, I will work with the Illinois congressional delegation to see that that is changed."

"We must pursue all available federal funds more aggressively," he added.

Howlett said Illinois for many years had one of the best climates for business but recently has been losing industry to other states and countries.

As Governor, he said, he would make economic development a key part of his administration. He has an advisory committee, headed by John Kennedy, a Winnetka electronics executive, assembling a program.

"We want to simplify the complicated regulations that state government requires from business," said Howlett. "We should cut forms and paper work to a minimum."

"In the office of Secretary of State, we cut from 24 to two the number of forms used for new car and truck purchasers to apply for their certificates of title and license plates."

Since 80 per cent of Illinois' economic expansion always has come from Illinois firms, Howlett said his top priority will be to preserve, expand and protect existing industries and existing jobs.

To improve the economic climate, he said, we should go after business and keep what we have; control state government spending and develop long-term policies that potential investors can rely upon.

"With strong leadership in the governor's office, we can give state government a new chance

THEFT FROM REGISTER
An undetermined amount of money was stolen from the cash register at the Cochran Store, 12th Street and Edwardsville Road, this week. A clerk said four men were in the store and one lured him away from the register for a moment. When he returned, the men left and he noticed the $10 bill section of the register was empty.

to develop our economy, provide work for the unemployed and start things moving in Illinois," said Howlett.

"With workers moved from unemployment compensation and relief rolls to payrolls, we will avoid a tax increase and still have the money for the human needs the people expect and deserve."

SIUE granted $6,750 by Arts Council

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is one of nine non-profit Illinois institutions to receive the first grants in the Illinois Arts Council's new Permanent Collection Purchase Program. Grants totaling $20,000 were made statewide toward the purchase of art works by 29 Illinois artists.

SIUE received $6,750 for the construction of a model by Chicago artist David Mooney for a large outdoor sculpture, to be a part of the University's Architecture Exhibit Bicentennial Sculpture project. SIUE also received a grant of $3,750 from the Illinois Bicentennial Commission.

The work, entitled "Poem for Passage," encompasses the theme "200 Years of Expanding Horizons," and according to the artist, "takes into account the unique historical connotations of the southern Illinois regions and the Mississippi River."

Other grantees in the Permanent Collection Purchase Program are: Columbia College, Chicago, $1,587.50 toward the purchase of 15 photographs by various artists; Elmhurst College in Elmhurst, $1,350 for "Cob Master," an oil painting by Ed Paschke and $700 for "Glimpse," an acrylic on masonite by Christina Ramberg; Governor's State University in Park Forest, a total of $1,500 toward sculptures by four artists—Legion XII by Maryrose Pilcher, "Sandia II" by Dennis Kowalski, "Organic Study" by Minna L. Reich, and an untitled piece by Charles Wilson.

Also, Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, $1,000 for "Chicago is Burning," an oil painting by Seymour Chwast; and $1,500 toward Claire Zeisler's "Red Madagascari IV," a work in cotton and raffia; the Galesburg Civic Art Center in Galesburg, $3,000 toward the purchase of Barry Tunley's large sculpture, "The Shield of Akhilleus."

Also, the Illinois State Museum in Springfield, $3,000 for sculptor John Henry's "Illinois Landscape No. 3"; the Springfield Art Association, $1,500 toward the construction of a model for a large sculpture by Abbott Pattison; and Wheaton College in Wheaton, Illinois, $1,862.50 toward acquisition of an untitled work of vacuum-formed plexiglass and acrylic lacquer by DeKalb artist Jack McCarthy. The Permanent Collection Purchase program was initiated in February to stimulate the recognition of Illinois artists and to encourage the growth of permanent collections in Illinois institutions. On a 50 per cent matching basis, grants of up to $3,000 were offered to non-profit museums, art centers, and university and college galleries toward the purchase of paintings, sculptures, photographs, prints, drawings and documented conceptual pieces.

A committee from the Illinois Arts Council's Visual Arts panel, chaired by Council member Larry Booth, made the selection from a group of 20 applicants. Selection committee members were Ralph Arnold, George Veronda, A. James Speyer, Evert Johnson and John Mulvany. Visual Arts Consultant Don Baum coordinated the application search and assisted the committee.

Similar in structure to the National Endowment for the Arts Museum Purchase Plan, the IAC program is the first of its kind to function on a state level. The project is also a pilot program of the IAC's Problems of the Creative Artist Committee.

Another $20,000 has been allocated for the program next year.

Urge early enrollment in first SIUE doctoral program

Students who wish to be considered for admittance this fall to the first doctoral program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville should apply immediately, according to Vaughn J. Lindsay, dean of the Graduate School, and Fred D. Carver, dean of the School of Education.

The program, the Education Doctoral in the Instructional Process, was accredited July 22 by the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools (NCA). The first students in the program will be formally admitted this fall.

"Recent accreditation at the doctoral degree level represents the culmination of several years of planning, development of resources and selection of faculty at the University," Dean Lindsay said. She pointed out that SIUE now offers 43 graduate programs, including three specialist degrees and the doctorate in education.

"The doctoral program is designed primarily for teachers," Dean Lindsay added. "It helps fulfill a University goal to provide advanced graduate education to professionals who wish to assume leadership roles and to ensure the quality of education in the public school classrooms." Dean Carver said demand for the program has been strong. He said a large number of inquiries and applications from prospective students had been received since announcement of formal degree approval by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. But formal admission into the program was delayed pending results of the evaluation by the NCA.

Prospective students for the fall quarter should apply as soon as possible for admission to the Graduate School and should contact Dean Carver for additional information on the program and its entrance requirements.

Dean Carver said the doctorate in the Instructional Process is "designed for education professionals currently in practice who wish to acquire knowledge and skills to improve instruction at all levels of education."

"The design of the program is such that persons can study on a part-time basis and come to campus two quarters for full-time study," Dean Carver said. "An important feature is the highly individualized nature of student programs. Each student, working with a faculty advisor and advisory committee, will develop a specific program of study based upon the student's professional interests, background, and objectives."

"Specializations in the instructional process may focus on one or more of the following areas: teaching behavior, learning and development of children and adolescents, curriculum, and the organization and leadership surrounding instruction. Through the cooperation of other schools on campus, it is possible for students to build doctoral programs around work in a teaching field," Dean Carver said.

According to the dean, prospective students for the Ed.D. in the Instructional Process must ordinarily hold a master's degree in education or its equivalent and be employed by an educational agency.

GUITAR IS STOLEN
A $60 guitar is the only thing known missing from a burglary this week at the home of Norma Martin, 1714 Delmar Ave. Entry was gained by removing a board over a broken pane in the rear door. Nothing inside the home was disturbed, except the guitar.

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE A. BUTTREY whose wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph Catholic Church. Formerly Miss Frances Marie Kary, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex J. Kary, 2263 Iowa St.

Buttrey-Kary wedding at St. Joseph Church

The wedding of Miss Frances Marie Kary and Bruce A. Buttrey of Heber, Ariz., formerly of Granite City, was solemnized in an afternoon ceremony on July 31 at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Father Peter Donohoe performed a double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock in the afternoon before an altar decorated with urns of white mums and greenery.

Prior to the ceremony Larry Smalle and a group playing the guitar and violin provided several nuptial selections.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Alex J. Kary, 2263 Iowa St. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buttrey of Kansas City, Mo., formerly of Granite City.

For her wedding, the former Miss Kary wore a gown designed by her mother fashioned of glove silk covered with organza and rose pattern motifs and beaded Alencon lace appliques.

Her fingertip veil was held in place by a beaded Alencon lace cap. She held a cascade of roses, carnations and baby's breath.

Maid of honor Miss Cecil Weiss and bridesmaids Miss Chris Antonopoulos and Miss Renee Besta were gowned in identical full length dresses of candlelight fabric embellished with blue, pink and yellow floral motifs.

Each attendant held a bouquet of roses and mums in pastel colors.

Jason Kary, a nephew of the bride, served as the ringbearer. The groom selected his brother, Glenn Buttrey, as best man.

Dave Watkins, Tom Rushing, Don and Gary Kary, brothers of the bride, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Guests were received by the newly married couple at a reception held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The rehearsal dinner was hosted at the Round Table Restaurant in Collinsville.

Mrs. Kary, mother of the bride, selected a long mint green Qiana dress trimmed in ecru Alencon lace. The groom's mother appeared in a printed organza formal length dress. Both wore corsages of tea roses.

Both young people graduated from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The bride is teaching speech pathology in the Heber, Ariz. school district and her husband is working as a forest ranger there.

They are at home now, in Heber, following a wedding trip to Colorado.

Free Methodist group names GC man as pastor

The Central Illinois Conference of the Free Methodist Church has appointed Lonnie Fenton, 2901 National Ave., as supply pastor to the Free Methodist Church in Hillsboro, Ill.

Fenton, a 1969 graduate of Granite City High School, has been attending Belleville Area College. He will start his junior year in September at Greenville (Ill.) College.

The new pastor, his wife, Pat, and their four children, Robin, 6, Andrea, 4, Crystal, 3 years and Jacob, 8 months, are leaving Granite City this week to make their home in Hillsboro.

The family will return Saturday to attend a farewell party in their honor, scheduled at 7 p.m. at the New Life Singing Center, East 25th and August streets. All friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Fenton, 25, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman (Birdie) Fenton, 2415 Grand Ave. His father is director of the New Life Singing Center, and the younger Fenton has been active in gospel singing programs there.

The congregation of the Hillsboro church greeted the new minister earlier this week when he conducted his first service there.

CAR IS LOOTED
Items valued at a total of $175 were stolen from the auto of Ann Meszaros, 2609 E. 24th St., parked in the driveway of her home, she discovered this week. The right window was pried open to gain entry. Taken were a tape player, six tape recordings, a pair of shoes and two raincoats.

Lock repairs complete

Repairs have been completed in the main 1,200 foot lock at Locks number 27 on the Chicago and Rock Canal, but is not being used yet to work being done to remove a cofferdam at the south lock approach.

Floyd Wade, lockmaster of Locks 27, explained the main 1,200 foot lock is available for use at any time traffic demands, but opening the lock would require the contractor on the cofferdam project to move his equipment, including a large floating crane, away from the approach and move it all back into position the next morning. The cofferdam project is expected to be completed Sept. 15, but repeated moving of the construction equipment could delay that date, Wade said. Presently, work on the cofferdam is from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily and the decision whether to have the contractor move his equipment for the night is being made "on a day-by-day basis," by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, Wade explained.

The smaller 900-foot lock is operating 24 hours a day to avoid a backlog of tows waiting to be locked through. Presently there are only about nine tows awaiting lockage, he noted. The smaller lock can accept barges three-wide, but the length is too small to allow a standard 15-barge tow through in on lockage.

Each lockage requires about one-half hour and the average time for a 15-barge tow to pass through the locks is one hour, Wade said.

He added more repair work to the main lock will be required, but that work has been delayed until after the anticipated traffic peak season from mid-September through November.

Tentative plans are to close the main lock again for all of January and February for work on the protection angle on the main lock recesses, Wade said. Until the cofferdam is removed, boats using the main lock will be limited to two barges (70 feet) wide and will be requested to hold their wake to a minimum to avoid disturbing the construction and the floating crane.

How to correct a 'rap' sheet

By WALTER STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer

Since March 18 this year, every person has the right to see and correct information that is on police, courts, correctional and other agencies, such as the FBI, has maintained about them, according to the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Systems Council of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

In a police record is a record of what a person has been arrested for, the dates arrested and released, and other details of each case. The primary reason a person should want to review his record is to make sure that the information in it is correct, as a record with incorrect information could keep a person from getting a state or federal job, joining a branch of the armed services or obtaining a license in any number of different professions or businesses.

To see your record, go to any police or county sheriff's office in Illinois between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, and ask for a form known as "request for access and review."

Positive identification, such as a drivers license or birth certificate, must be available to the authorities and the person requesting the information will be fingerprinted. The fingerprints are then checked against the ones on file to make sure that no one can claim to be someone else.

A fee of $10 may be charged. A person must keep his copy of the request form in a safe place and within six weeks a notice of an appointment will be sent as to the time the record will be available. If a person cannot appear at the appointment time, a different appointment may be requested within 25 days by telephoning authorities.

When the person appears he may take his copy of "request for access and review" and positive identification with him and take any official documents concerning his record. A person also may have an attorney with him if he wishes.

If a person asks for it they will be given a list of the non-criminal justice agencies which have obtained copies of their record since March 18, 1976.

If there are any errors a record challenge form may be obtained and a person then lists in detail why information on a record should be changed.

Within six weeks, a person will receive a notice as to whether corrections were approved or denied. If changes in the record are denied, a written explanation can be obtained and a person may apply for an administrative review.

If a person is still not satisfied, they may file an administrative appeal with the Illinois Criminal Justice Information Systems Council, 130 South Riverside Plaza, Chicago, Ill. 60606.

The council's decision will be final unless a person chooses to file a civil suit in a court of law.

Persons wishing to know what information the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) has about them, if anything, may write Director, FBI Justice Department, Washington, D.C. 20535.

In the upper left-hand corner, a person should write "Freedom of Information Act Request." A person is requested to state why he thinks the FBI may have a file on him.

R. F. Richardson, 64, dies

Robert F. Richardson, 64, of 2333 Gary Ave., died at 10:45 a.m. Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital, St. Louis, where he had been a patient two weeks. Born in Sun Flower, Miss., he moved to this area in 1941.

Mr. Richardson was employed 22 years as a guard at General Steel Industries prior to his retirement in 1973.

A member of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church, Mr. Richardson also belonged to VPW Post 1309, Masonic Lodge 877, Low Twelve Club and Gabriel Shrine 78, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Katharyn Richardson; four brothers, Melvin Richardson of Granite City, Edward Richardson of Clarksville, Tenn., Alvin Richardson, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Lawrence Richardson of Jonesboro, Ark.; three sisters, Mrs. Milbrey Carne, Columbus, Ohio, Mrs. Viola Wall and Mrs. Lurina Phillips, both of Hopkville, Ky.

Arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Expansion at National Lead

Granite City yesterday issued a $130,000 building permit to National Lead Co., 16th Street and Cleveland Blvd., to construct an addition for an office, snack bar, restrooms and other purposes. The permit lists $68,000 for the basic structure and $62,000 for heating, plumbing and electrical work. Ed Moore Construction Co. is general contractor for the work.

be sufficient proof to the EPA that means of financing Areas Two and Three are being explored so the grant offer will remain alive.

The application seeks $5.6 million from the EDA, but it is doubtful a grant approaching that total can be expected, since the EDA program nationwide has only $4 billion and only about $6.5 million is expected to be allocated for Southwestern Illinois.

Of that, the maximum grant for any one project is $5 million, but the $6.5 million is expected to be split among projects in several Southwestern Illinois Communities.

Even if Madison County should receive a $5 million EDA grant, that is expected to be earmarked for more than one county project, including financing of a new Madison County Jail, Sparks noted.

EDA also is having its problems as a current set of regulations for grant approval still is being prepared and it is not known when it will be finalized.

Nonetheless, Hagnauer commented it was only appropriate that Madison County "get our name in the hat" for an EDA grant for the sanitary sewers.

The special sewer committee at tonight's meeting will discuss the grant application, the release of specifications for bidding and whether to sell the Area One general obligation bonds this month.

There is a possibility the committee may select to delay the sale of the general obligation bonds one month "to allow some loose ends to be tied up," Sparks explained.

Paving work to include Niedringhaus

Resurfacing of Niedringhaus Avenue from Grand Ave. to Edison Ave. has been included in a citywide street improvement program for which asphalt paving work has been contracted, it was reported this week.

The Niedringhaus project was included at the request of Mayor Paul Schuler, an addition to a series of projects set up by Granite City aldermen in their respective wards.

Contracts in the amount of $82,155 for the asphalt resurfacing have been awarded to MacLair Asphalt Co. of Collinsville. In addition, other street work is planned in a program that eventually will cost a total of $222,000.

Other work, which will be awarded under separate contracts, will include sidewalk construction and installation of curb and guttering in some wards.

Most of the asphalt resurfacing will be done in Wards Two, Three and Four.

The Niedringhaus Avenue resurfacing proposed by the mayor will include the two-block area in which the paving now is in bad condition.

Fidelis Class aids member

Mrs. Ruby Mayberry of 2349 Grand Ave., entertained members of the Fidelis Class of Second Baptist Church, last week for its August meeting.

Mrs. Dolores Ayers gave a prayer for the sick and Mrs. Pearl Rongey presented the devotions.

Members agreed to send a basket of fruit to a church member who is hospitalized.

Roll call was answered with scripture verses and Mrs. Hassler, Jack Pearson, Ruth Chapman, Florence Paul, Mina Duggins and Margaret Dutton.

cord with the budget and appropriation ordinance, then the bills should not be approved," the report stated.

It also suggested, "Inventory records should be maintained on all bulk purchases made by the highway department. Fuel dispensed from bulk tanks should be documented as to the date, vehicle, employee and number of gallons dispensed."

Estes said he has such records, but the auditors did not ask to see them. "We know where every gallon of gasoline went — into what truck and what it was used for," he contended.

The audit report also noted, "The practice of township road district employees purchasing gasoline for their own personal vehicles with township funds should be discontinued. Employees using personal vehicles in the performance of their duties should be reimbursed on the basis of actual miles driven and supported by appropriate vouchers."

Referring to an incident during the year in which a private vehicle allegedly was used by the highway department, the report said "The practice of maintaining, licensing and insuring equipment with township funds without clear or merchantable title to such equipment should be discontinued."

The auditing firm also suggested the township maintain a record of its general fixed assets which would require an inventory of everything the township owns with the approximate value of every item listed.

Robert L. Zoelzer, accountant for Scheffel, told the auditors, "If you had a total change of administration right now, the town clerk would say the typewriter in the office is hers and she was just letting the township use it and you would have no way of knowing whether it was hers or the township's."

The auditors also recommended discontinuing flat rate travel allowances being paid to some township officials with the officials reimbursed on the basis of actual miles driven; bidding for items purchased for road work and other acquisitions "to insure that the township is buying at the best price available;" daily time records for all employees of the township and fireproof cabinets for the township records.

It also noted, "All township officials and employees involved in handling funds or maintaining accounting records for the township should be covered by fidelity bonds. Currently, the bonds covering the township supervisor and road district treasurer are in amounts less than one-half that required by statute." Walter "Dick" Sparks said the audit should give the town board greater control over the highway department, since the board approves the department's budget and now can demand that the commissioner keep spending in line with the budget.

Zoelzer said that restriction also should apply to wages for highway workers. "You as auditors should not approve wages not in the budget," he noted. The town board of auditors has no control over the highway commissioner's expenditures, if legal, up to the point where the money in the budget has been spent.

"When it goes beyond the budget and there is no money to transfer, then that is when we, as auditors, have the obligation to say no," Supervisor Sparks summarized.

Zoelzer added, "The budget is the authority to spend. Where there is no more money left in the budget, that is when you can not spend.

Town Clerk Mrs. Patricia Polley asked if Zoelzer was indicating the highway commissioner "has no control over his accounts, and Zoelzer answered, "Yes, that's so."

The public auditor also told the board it could transfer between some accounts where there are shortages, but the board also has the right to deny transfer requests.

Township Auditor James Greer said he had been issued a warrant from the highway commissioner was sufficient to assure each bill was legal and to authorize the board to pay it.

Mrs. Polley noted the warrant gave her no idea from which account to pay the bill. "It is the duty of the highway commissioner to specify from which account each bill should be paid and to be sure there is enough money in the account to pay the bill," Zoelzer said.

"We are advocating, that a realistic budget be adopted and purchases be made to comply with the budget," he added.

Auditor Cletus Bedwell commented, "We don't have the slightest idea what is in that budget," and noted it is prepared by the highway commissioner without consulting the town board.

Auditor Marion Sparks questioned whether the town board has the authority to tell Estes how to spend his money and Zoelzer repeated, "Until he exceeds his budget, none. When he exceeds his budget, the board does."

He also stated, "It is the role of the office help to see that expenditures are not taken out of the wrong account, for example to see road oil is not charged under office equipment."

Supervisor Sparks noted, "Jim should look over the bills and decide which account each expenditure should come out of. It is going to depend upon Jim giving us the information." Sparks disagreed with several points of the audit, including the recommendation to discontinue flat mileage payments, changing to the reimbursement policy for actual miles driven. "It is a good recommendation, but not necessarily practical." He noted anyone can falsify mileage slips for more money.

There also was a disagreement whether the board should authorize the paying of the highway department employees for the current pay period, because Estes had not signed the payroll sheet to authorize the checks being issued.

It finally was settled on a 3-1 vote, with Bedwell voting against issuing the paychecks until signed and Wilfred "Bud" Eberhardt voting to pay the employees, but adding, "I'll never go along with it again." Marion and Walter Sparks also voted to pay the employees as soon as Estes signs the payroll sheet. The employees were paid Tuesday.

Supervisor Sparks noted the payroll slip had been available several days for Estes to sign, but he had not signed it. "I'll have to agree it is rather neglectful."

Eberhardt warned, "He is just going to have to be told we can not operate this way. This happens every meeting. It has to come to a halt sometime."

Expect arrests in rape by 10

A spokesman for the Madison County Sheriff's Department said yesterday that some arrests are anticipated in Friday's abduction of two young women from St. Louis and their alleged rape and robbery by 10 men on the northern tip of Chouteau Island.

It was the second case within a week in which young women reported being abducted from St. Louis, raped on Chouteau Island and then released. On July 31, two young women said four men forced them into a car in St. Louis and raped them on Chouteau Island.

There was no news release on Friday's case as Information Officer Conrad "Pete" Baetz said it was "being kept quiet" pending investigation so the suspects would not hide. "We were going under the assumption that those involved would think the case never was reported, since about half of the rapes are never reported," Baetz said.

He confirmed that two 18-year-old girls from St. Louis were stopped by Ferguson police for speeding and told officers they had just been raped by 10 men.

They were brought to the Madison County Sheriff's Department where they related three men forced their way into the women's auto at a service station and one of the men struck one of the women several times getting into the car. They were forced to drive behind another car full of men to the north end of Chouteau Island where they were raped, robbed and beaten. A small amount of cash and some possessions were taken.

The men later allowed the victims to use a rest room in a nearby truck stop and then released them somewhere in Illinois, they said. They drove back to Missouri and were driving in their auto when they were stopped in Ferguson and related the story.

Baetz said numerous incidents have been reported recently on Chouteau Island, particularly the northern area, where there are no inhabitants. The area often is used for drinking parties and numerous crimes have been reported there, he said. Baetz suggested the residents of the island get together, perhaps with their township government, and attempt to find a way to limit access to the island to residents only.

"We have no authority to tell those people what to do, but it would seem limiting access to the island somehow would stop a lot of the problems there," Baetz added.

$59 million in tax extended

A total of $59,555,848 in 1975 taxes has been billed to the taxpayers of Madison County for payment during the current collection period scheduled to end Sept. 1, according to County Clerk Evelyn Bowles.

The new tax extension is $4,715,356 higher than the $54,840,492 billed for collections in the county's 24 townships last year.

Largest tax billed countywide for any single purpose amounts to $34,656,166 for the county's 15 school districts. The school tax accounts for a big part of the higher tax bill this year. Last year's extension for school purposes was $31,892,432.

A total of $5,153,200 has been extended for cities and villages, up from $8,378,511 last year. For county purposes, taxes extended countywide total $5,850,339, up from $5,234,769, while township road and bridge taxes total $3,753,285, up from $3,313,929.

Taxes for community college districts total $2,265,778, a slight rise over the $2,230,701 extended for collection last year.

Sanitary district taxes total $1,093,269, up from $1,084,747. Tax bills for park districts amount to $681,923, compared to $668,274 last year, and for fire protection districts total $712,371, up from $615,671.

Other tax extensions include street lighting districts $4,822 ($4,567 last year); Civic Memorial Airport $413,398 ($367,515); Wood River Township Hospital $644,642 ($757,627); Hayner public library $218,997 ($214,115); drainage tax $101,284 ($77,626); back tax $6,366 (none).

HOUSE RANSACKED

A window was removed from a basement door and the door was opened and left open to gain entry to the home of Dennis Hunnicutt, 2608 Cleveland Blvd., between 8:30 p.m. Monday and 2:50 p.m. Tuesday. The house was ransacked. It is not known if anything was stolen.

Future Secretaries plan sale

Plans for a Friday the 13th rummage sale were finalized at a meeting of the Granite City High School Future Secretaries Association Board of Directors held at the home of faculty advisor Judi Sparks on Monday evening.

The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Long Lake Firemen's Hall, and all members will be contacted with full details. Lisa Mitchell was designated to call FSA members from North High School, and Elaine Goetting those from South.

Hours of work for FSA members on Friday have been divided into two shifts, with the South girls working from 7 to 12, and North girls from 12 to 5. Rummage may be taken to the homes of Lisa Mitchell at 2983 Boyle Ave., Mary Winfield at 1845 Bremen Ave., or NSA Chairman Mrs. Charlie Vunovic, at 2913 Dogwood Drive.

An invitation for FSA members to attend a private "back-to-school" party at Libson's Shop was discussed. Mrs. Sparks will contact the store for further details.

Also discussed was the proposed change in meeting nights. It was agreed to set the regular monthly meeting for the second Monday of each month, with refreshments served at 7 p.m., followed by the meeting from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Grades are now in the process of being checked to determine eligibility of high school juniors for membership in the Future Secretaries Association. When this information is completed, each eligible girl will receive an invitation to attend the first meeting scheduled for Monday, Sept. 13, at which time they will be given more details about the responsibilities of membership, and will be present for the style show which will be the program for the evening.

Initiation of new members and installation of officers will be held at 2 p.m. on Oct. 10 at the Central Christian Church fellowship hall. There will be no monthly meeting in October, it was announced.

FUTURE SECRETARIES who attended a board of directors meeting Monday to plan year-long events for members of the high school organization. Their initial project will be a rummage sale this Friday at the Long Lake Firemen's Hall. Seated from left is Mary Winfield, president and Elaine Goetting, vice-president. Standing are Pat Stamps, Lisa St. Cyn, Judi Sparks and Lisa Mitchell, officers and faculty advisors.

Other plans include a bosses panel program for Nov. 8, and those in charge of contacting the participants are Mrs. Sparks, Lisa St. Cyn, and Mary Winfield.

The highlight of December again this year will be stuffing stockings for the Christmas party that the National Secretaries Association holds annually at the Madison County Sheltered Care Home. This activity is scheduled to again take place at Sidener Supply Co. the afternoon preceding the party.

FSA alumni will come back to school on Jan. 10 to participate on a panel and tell the members their experiences in securing jobs, and the duties performed during a typical working day. Feb. 14th's meeting will focus on the talents of the FSA members as they assume their roles in a skit entitled "Eight Hours in the Life of a Working Girl." This humorous skit depicts the right and wrong way of doing things in an office. Parts have not yet been assigned.

Planning seen as key to region's future

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD
Thurs., Aug. 12, 1976 Page 27

By ALAN C. RICHTER
Executive Director
East-West Gateway
Coordinating Council

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council is, by virtue of the resources and capabilities given to it by governments on several levels, Greater St. Louis' most important planning agency.

Because of this fact — because of what the word "planning" involves — East-West Gateway is intimately concerned with the future of the region.

For everyone involved in the Council's activities, staff, board members and Regional Forum alike, the central question is what kind of place this region will be for living and working in the years and generations ahead.

Without planning — without the research and thinking and choosing that are all part of the planning process — we as a region can do nothing about the future except to sit back, hold our breath, and hope for the best. And that is clearly dangerous.

Therefore, I hope we are all agreeing that the need for planning of some kind is very nearly self-evident.

Assuming that is the case, the logical next question is: What kind of planning should be done? What should we be planning — what should we be planning for?

There is no short and simple answer to that question. I wish there were, but the truth is that we face many kinds of future needs and all of those needs require some degree of separate treatment.

There is a question of whether St. Louis can maintain its position as the largest port on America's inland waterways system, for example; and we at East-West Gateway have a part to play in finding answers to that question.

Similarly, there is a question of whether Greater St. Louis can remain a nationally important rail center without improving its facilities. As a consequence, a railroad modernization project has been on the agendas of several groups and governmental organizations for quite some time now.

The same is true in almost too many other fields to name — housing, public transportation, highways, air quality, water quality, etc. etc. etc.

In all of these fields we are confronted with questions and challenges.

The questions are about the seriousness of possible problems and about what we might do to solve those problems.

The challenges are to find the best available solutions and to get those solutions used.

That in a nutshell is why we plan at East-West Gateway and why our planning work is so extensive, so diverse, so deeply involved in so many different kinds of subjects.

We begin with the idea that in planning for Greater St. Louis we are attempting to have some impact upon the future of our region.

One way we are attempting to decide what good things could happen to help the people of Greater St. Louis and then to find ways of making those good things actually come into existence.

Also and conversely, we are attempting to identify things that should not happen because they would have bad effects on the region; having identified such things, we try to find acceptable ways of making sure that they will not come to pass.

Our ultimate goal is one that is not too far from the idea of planning could really reject: the future St. Louis region that will be everything that it can be — a good place to work; a good place to live and to raise families; and a physically attractive place that provides its inhabitants with good services, social and economic opportunities, and a good quality of life.

Our work therefore is not abstract or academic.

If these plans meet our expectations, they will help to determine how Greater St. Louis will be used in the years ahead.

They will help to determine whether our physical and other resources will be used for the long-range good of the region and its citizens or in some other, less desirable way.

Because in a sense we are actually trying to affect the future of Greater St. Louis and keep it from being changed in ill-directed ways, we can best explain the nature of our different activities interrelate by discussing land use planning.

The subject of land use planning is, of course, a sometimes controversial one. People are often quick to oppose any plan that is an attempt by government agencies to dictate the ways in which the private sector may use its property or land.

That is not a satisfactory definition of land use planning, however. It is the ability of regional organizations to dictate anything is often virtually nonexistent.

This is obvious in the case of the Gateway Council, which, despite its status as the region's primary planning agency, has absolutely no power to implement the plans that it recommends.

We can only do the best we can, as individuals and as representatives of government, to develop plans that will be good for the region.

Then we must turn to other agencies for the implementation of these plans. And that is what we do in land use planning.

We work — staff and board members and Regional Forum representatives and others, including representatives from every county in the region — to provide Greater St. Louis with the best possible guide to the future use of its physical resources.

Having done this, having pointed out ways in which Greater St. Louis can create new positive qualities and preserve its traditional qualities and avoid creating new problems, we can only offer our best advice to the people and their representatives.

The idea that we could ever dictate the use of our ideas is obviously absurd, as anyone who understands this region can readily understand.

And if it is then somehow determined that the airport of the future will be somewhere other than the St. Louis airport, land use planning must be extensively revised or it bears no realistic relationship to reality.

You may wonder about whether land use planning is considered to be more important than all the other, more limited kinds of planning.

I must tell you that there seems to be no clear answer to that question; it's like the old puzzle about what came first — the chicken or the egg?

Because of its scope, land use planning is in a sense more important than many other planning fields.

But to develop a land use plan and then insist that everything else must conform to it, or, hell or high water, would be very foolish and dangerous indeed.

Land use is, after all, largely a composite of other kinds of planning put together and coordinated, and therefore it must be adjusted to meet real and serious needs for transportation, jobs, or whatever.

All these things, all the fields in which we plan, are too tightly interrelated for any one of them to be given total dominance.

It is, however, safe to say at least two things with certainty on this subject. The first is that land use is the common denominator of almost all planning work; it is the one point at which practically all the planning we do intersects.

The second is that if you want to understand how the planning activities of the Gateway Council all relate to each other, the best way to do so is to begin with land use planning and think of everything else as a function relating to it.

By doing so, we can begin to see how apparently quite distinct planning activities, activities that seem at first glance to have no relationship to each other, really do come together to form a big picture.

And what is that picture? It is a picture of Greater St. Louis in the next ten, twenty, or thirty years.

Consider our mass transit studies, for example. As you know, we have been looking for a long time — and are still involved today — in an extensive effort to plan improved mass transportation for the region, looking for ways of meeting those needs, and looking ahead to the time when we will be able to select the best of those ways and then find the means of having them implemented.

If we are successful in producing a good mass transit plan that the community as a whole is willing and able to implement, the effects will be far-reaching.

Our highway system could feel those effects, obviously, in the form of reduced auto traffic. Workers and employers could feel the effects, too, as they find it easier and perhaps less costly for people to move between homes and working places and places to shop.

Overall, improved mass transit would be likely to have an impact not only upon people's ability to move about in the community but also upon where people live and work in the community.

Thus it would help to determine the physical character of the community and would, by definition, have a big impact upon land use.

And what if the opposite comes to pass? What if, after all our work, no plan for far-reaching improvement of the region's mass transit system is accepted and implemented by the people and their governments?

In today's environment, for example, no county or municipality in Greater St. Louis is likely to have much success if it tries to meet all of its transportation needs and solve all of its transportation problems by acting alone.

And to return to the example I used a moment ago, no local government is likely to avoid problems by ignoring the fact that its transit and land use problems are related not only to each other but to the transit and land use problems of other local governments and of the region taken as a whole.

As another interesting example, consider the field of water quality. The federal government has new standards for water quality in metropolitan areas, including the St. Louis region, and they are high standards indeed.

By the 1980's, in fact, Greater St. Louis is expected to have all of its major waterways in "fishable and swimmable" condition.

That is a tough thing to accomplish, though obviously it will be worthwhile if we manage to accomplish it without paying too high a price for doing so. Finding a way of getting this done — of sharply improving our water quality without disrupting other things in the community — is becoming one of the major challenges facing the Gateway Council.

The expression "improving water quality without disrupting other things," is an important one because it indicates that water quality, like all other planning subjects, does not exist in a vacuum.

Computer heating to save energy

In the interest of energy conservation, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has installed a computer system to control the heating, ventilation, and air-conditioning of the campus core buildings, according to Charles Moorleghen, director of plant operations at the University.

During fiscal year 1976 the University consumed 33,218,000 kilowatts of electricity. With the introduction of the new IBM Power Management System, the University hopes to decrease energy consumption by at least 10 per cent during fiscal year 1977, Moorleghen said.

The IBM System 7 operates by controlling demand and consumption. The computer is connected to both a demand meter and a group of air-handling devices. However, only 43 "controllable load" devices are attached to the computer system. The devices are referred to as "controlled loads," because their use, although critical, is not critical for every minute of the day.

An interruption in their operation for short periods should not affect production, employee comfort, or create a safety hazard. The time that they are shut down is not long enough so that people working in the area would feel any temperature change, James Johnson, chief engineer at the University, said.

Throughout the day a group of four devices is shut down for a pre-determined period ranging from 10 to 20 minutes, decreasing the overall amount of energy being consumed at that time. When the series of devices starts up again another group of four devices will cease to operate.

Each air-handling device will be turned off for only short periods and never less than 2.5 hours apart. The devices will be off for longer periods at night and on weekends. However, Moorleghen said, some building areas cannot tolerate excessive temperature change and must be maintained at an even temperature at all times.

The savings in energy has already become apparent, even though the power management system has been in operation for a short time. Within 13 months, enough energy will have been saved to pay the initial $28,000 installation costs, Johnson said. There will be a monthly lease charge for the system, he added.

"We just got word that Illinois Power has proposed a 14.2 per cent rate increase. If it is granted by the Illinois Commerce Commission, it could mean a rate increase of over $100,000 for SIUE," Johnson said. The power management system will help offset that cost, he said.

Mites hit bean fields

By RON CORNWELL

Extension Farm Adviser Spider mites are present in many soybean fields in Madison County.

The symptom to look for is a yellowing of the soybean leaves and a stunting of the soybean plant. Damage is usually most severe along the edge of the field.

To check for spider mites, examine the lower side of the leaves. The mites appear as small moving specks on the lower side of the leaf. Because of the small size, you may need a hand lens to see them.

If general dry conditions continue into the fall, damage may be severe in some fields. These mites will probably be present until frost.

A hard beating rain can help clean the plant of mites for a period of time and give the plants a chance to grow away from the feeding. The only other alternative is chemical control.

The University of Illinois hasn't been able to establish an economical level for treating mites. The best guide is when the plants start turning yellow or brown.

Mites are very difficult to control. This makes it necessary to use one of the more toxic chemicals to the applicator for control. Therefore, it is suggested that spraying for mites be done by an experienced applicator. For information on specific chemicals to use for control, contact your Extension Service office.

Some Madison County cornfields have been damaged by drought. Although they won't yield much grain, the crop can be salvaged as green chop or silage.

Feed value of drought-damaged corn silage can be surprisingly good. But nitrate accumulation is a possible problem. Nitrate levels greater than 0.5 per cent of dry matter may cause nitrate poisoning. Confirmed reports of nitrate poisoning are rare, but are especially alert for problems when cattle first start eating drought-damaged feed.

Diluting the feed with a few pounds of hay or grain per head reduces the danger of toxicity. Once the cattle have adapted to the feed containing nitrate, they can tolerate higher nitrate levels.

Green chopping poses a greater risk for nitrate poisoning, while ensiling the crop for two to three weeks reduces the problem. Cutting the stalk a few inches higher than normal also helps, because nitrate concentration is higher in the lower portion of the stalk.

Corn should not be harvested for silage before the plants dry for 70 per cent moisture level. While some of the leaves may be brown, the stalk can still be too sappy. Thus the stalk has to dry some before the ensiling can be harvested for silage.

Tests indicate that drought-damaged corn silage may have 70 to 80 per cent of the feed value of corn silage when fed to growing beef and dairy cattle. Supplement the silage with a natural protein — like soybean meal — rather than urea.

The greatest problem is that the dry matter yield per acre for drought-damaged corn silage is considerably less than that of normal corn silage. The dry matter feed value of drought-damaged corn silage, containing little or no grain, would be about equal to the feed value of good quality grass hay.

The monetary value of the drought-damaged corn silage can vary considerably, depending upon the moisture content and the palatability after ensiling. Normal corn silage may have a dry basis of grain per ton, worth $16.50 at $2.75 per bushel. Adding about $3.50 per ton for harvesting and handling puts the silage price at $20 per ton at 33 per cent dry matter.

Assuming that drought-damaged silage provides growing cattle with 75 per cent as much feed value as normal silage, its monetary value will be $15 per ton at 33 per cent dry matter.

Progressive Class hears Mrs. Duggins

Mrs. Mina Duggins gave the devotion at a meeting of the Progressive Class of Second Baptist Church held in the home of Mrs. Naomi Burnett, 2434 Illinois Ave.

Mrs. Alene Reagan presided at the session and roll call was registered by Mrs. Iva Biggs. Prayer for the sick was offered by Mrs. Naomi Rongey and Mrs. Elsie Sturdivent closed the session with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to those named and to Mesdames Lela Harris, Leoda Coben, Rachel Westphal, Melba Roberts, Grace Lambeth, Florence Paul, Ruby Mayberry, Carrie Hawn, Virginia Ficker, Louise Jones, Lena Bonniwer, Lena Stevens, Florence Taylor and Gladys Hudgens.

The September meeting will be held at the church.

Loan guaranty for veterans increased

Increased guaranty on mobile home loans and extended eligibility to $50,000 peacetime veterans were among features of the Veterans Housing Amendments Act of 1976 signed into law by President Ford June 30.

The Veterans Administration noted that more than 9.3 million veterans have borrowed $122.9 billion under the Veterans Administration's Loan Guaranty Program since it was established in 1944.

The guaranty is a substitute for investment protection sought by lenders through substantial down-payments and shorter terms in making conventional mortgage loans.

Mobile homes and mobile home lots were added in 1970, with a guarantee of 30 per cent. The new law increased this guarantee to 50 per cent, effective July 1, of an unpaid balance up to a maximum of $12,500 on single wide units. For a double-wide unit, the maximum guarantee is $20,000.

Veterans gaining eligibility for G.I. home loans for the first time, effective Oct. 1, are those whose active duty occurred after July 25, 1947, and prior to June 27, 1950. They must have served for more than 180 days under conditions other than dishonorable or have been discharged with less service for a service-connected disability, it was noted.

Unmarried surviving spouses of veterans who served during this period also will be eligible if the veteran died while on active duty or as a result of a service-connected disability.

Veterans with service overlapping the peacetime service dates who derived entitlement from World War II or Korean Conflict service will not acquire new entitlement as a result of the new law, a VA spokesman said.

Also effective Oct. 1 is an increase in the amount of direct loans that can be made by the VA to eligible veterans or their families from $21,000 to $33,000.

The direct loan program extends credit for purchase, construction, repair and alteration of homes and farmhouses in some rural or small community areas where private credit is not generally available.

Complete information on G.I. home loans is available from all VA offices or veterans' organization service officers.

Fair visitors may vote for famous favorites

Who is Illinois' most famous favorite son or daughter?

Visitors to the State Fair in Springfield, today through Aug. 22, will have a chance to vote their preference from among such candidates as Abraham Lincoln, social worker Jane Addams, Indian chief Black Hawk, poet Carl Sandburg and others in a mock election sponsored by the State Board of Elections.

Other names on the ballot will include farm implement developer John Deere, U.S. Senator Stephen A. Douglas of Lincoln-Douglas debate fame, the 18th President of the U.S., Ulysses S. Grant, and Chicago's first settler Jean Baptiste Point du Sable.

There will be space on the voting devices for write-in candidates and staff members of the State Board of Elections will be on hand to explain how to operate standard voting machines and two new punch card voting devices that will be used during this fall's general election.

The State Fair mock election is being presented, according to Franklin J. Lundberg Jr., chairman of the State Board of Elections, as part of this agency's continuing public education program. It includes mock elections in elementary and junior and senior high schools throughout the state.

In a unique program last April, an estimated 225,000 children in elementary schools throughout the state learned about the election process by choosing the blue jay as their favorite bird, the deer as their favorite wild animal, and the collie as their favorite dog.

In September, junior and senior high school principals in all parts of Illinois will receive material that will enable them to conduct mock elections in their schools in November.

The State Fair polling place will be located in the State Board of Elections booth at the entrance to the Government Tent. The polls will be open during State Fair hours and all visitors will be eligible to vote.

King-Hoffman move offices

King and Hoffman Realty has moved its business offices into newly-purchased property at 2948 Madison Ave., which features five private offices to accommodate customers in a more personalized service, according to the owners, Carl Hoffman and Fred King.

Off street parking is available at the side and back of the building, the owners added. The firm made the move to new quarters from across the street during the weekend. They formerly were located at 2861 Madison Ave.

Other employees of the firm are real estate salesmen Ted Valencia and John Martinez and the office secretary, Mrs. Pam Cass.

WALLET, COINS STOLEN

Larry Arnold, 2912 Victory Drive, reported during the weekend that a door was forced open at this apartment and a red wallet and small bank, both containing $172 in cash and coins, were missing.

MR. & MRS. MASSIE ENTERTAIN GUESTS
Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Massie, 14 Terrace Lane, entertained Mrs. Lee Barkley of Los Angeles, Calif., as their house guest for the past month. She is formerly Virginia Massie.

Other guests visiting with the Massie family included Mrs. Jack Johnson of Fort Worth, Tex. and Mrs. J. D. Speers of Coahoma, Tex.

Swimming Association championship meet here won for a second straight year by Summersport of Godfrey. Mushill joined Brian Ropac, Kelly Mann and Scott Buenger as a freestyle relay team which took first place.

WARM-UP LAPS. More than 700 swimmers representing seven swim clubs participated during the weekend in a Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association championship meet at Granite City's Paddler Club pool on Johnson Road. Pre-meet practice as shown here was important to the performance of the athletes.

Jones wins race despite bounty

Alabama's Lance Jones left his mark on the quarter-mile dirt oval of Tri-City Speedway Tuesday evening, and in the track's record book, winning his fifth consecutive feature race during the weekly American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned racing program.

Jones also won every event he entered, bringing his consecutive winning streak here to 15 events. Jones led Chris Reitz and Mike Eades across the finish line in a heat race, and then outran Robert Beary and Doug Ahn to the checkers in a semi-main event.

With a $50 bounty offered to any rider who could beat Jones in the feature race, Texan Guy

McClure set out to try and snap the victor's winning streak. McClure won his heat race over Jeff Mundlock and Steve Freeman, then beat Earl Greenlee and Reitz in a semi-main race, earning a spot in the main event lineup sitting alongside of Jones.

Before the starter could drop the green flag, McClure made a false start and was placed at the rear of the field.

On the start, Jones surged into the lead followed by Ted Boody, Beary, David Fisher, Reitz, Mundlock, McClure and others.

One-by-one McClure passed the riders in front of him until he gained third position on the sixth-lap of the 10-lap event. But, Jones' lead proved unsurmountable all the way to the checkers, with Boody taking second and McClure third.

Other preliminary race victors were: Beary, heat race; Gary Rust, heat race; Greenlee, heat race; Fisher, heat race; Beary, heat race and semi; and Mundlock, semi-main race.

Study new menace to soybeans

A plant geneticist at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is trying to solve a problem for Southern Illinois soybean farmers that most of them don't even have yet.

The problem is a microscopic roundworm called the soybean cyst nematode that infests soybean fields and may cut yields by as much as 75 per cent in heavily-infested areas. While the pest has been found in some Southern Illinois soybean fields, it hasn't caused the amount of damage suffered by farmers in Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and some areas of the southeast Missouri foothills.

In Arkansas, for example, nearly one-fourth of the soybean acreage is ravaged by nematodes. Oval Myers Jr., professor of genetics and plant breeding in the SIUC School of Agriculture, says the pestilential worm first appeared in North Carolina in the early 1950s and has moved north and west in the years since. It showed up in Southern Illinois soybean fields about 10 years ago.

Myers says the "continuous cropping" approach to soybean growing has made the cyst nematode problem more serious in the past few years because growing soybeans continually in the same fields tends to encourage the worms' proliferation.

Once the nematodes reach high enough concentrations, they begin to kill. They attack the roots of the bean plants and interfere with their ability to draw essential nutrients from the soil.

Working with the aid of a four-year, $100,000 grant from the Illinois Soybean Program Operating Board, Myers is trying to develop a strain of soybeans for Southern Illinois farmers that will be resistant to the onslaught of the nematode without sacrificing high yields.

"It's not enough just to have the resistance," Myers said, "it also must have other desirable characteristics such as high yield, resistance to other pathogens."

However, the problem is complicated by the fact that soybeans are "photo-maturing" plants — they are sensitive to the amount of daylight they receive while developing. This means that a particular soybean strain will only produce well when it is planted in a relatively narrow geographical band.

Myers said that although there are soybean varieties that can resist currently prevalent "races" of nematodes that threaten Southern Illinois soybeans, they aren't of the right photo-maturity group to give good yields in this region. In addition, a new "race four" becoming more widespread in the area.

He said the process of developing the new strain of resistant soybeans probably will take "at least" four years, beginning with selection of a soybean variety showing resistance to the cyst nematode infestation. This variety will be crossed with others that show desirable characteristics.

The hybrids will be "back-crossed" for four or five generations to produce a strain suitable for field evaluation.

"At the rate of two generations a year, it takes a while to do," Myers said.

Initial development and testing will be done at the SIUC Agronomy Research Center greenhouses, and field evaluation will take place at selected locations in Southern Illinois.

Myers will be assisted in his research by James Gray of Carbondale, a pre-doctoral student in plant and soil science and botany.

The Illinois Soybean Program Operating Board currently supports seven soybean-related research projects at SIUC, ranging from Myers' project to an effort to develop a low-cost and palatable soybean-based food for elderly persons, according to Michale R. Dingsinger, director of the SIUC Office of Research and Projects.

The soybean board supports research projects at SIUC and other Illinois universities with a one-half cent per bushel check-off on each bushel of Illinois soybeans sold.

Births decline, deaths on rise during July

Births in the Quad-City area during July dropped below those of the same month a year ago, but the number of deaths last month showed an increase, according to a vital statistics report by City Clerk Robert Stevens.

The report showed only one fetal last month, compared to two in July 1975. This brought to only three the total number of fetals so far this year, compared to seven for the same period last year.

The report showed a total of 69 births in the area last month, down from 77 a year ago. There were 45 deaths in July, up from 37 a year ago.

These statistics brought to 501 the total number of births during the seven months of this year, compared to 534 in the same period a year ago, and a total of 278 deaths, compared to 252 a year ago.

Crib accidents cause most injuries to small children

By WILLIAM J. SCOTT

Illinois Attorney General

Usually when we think of injuries to children, we think of skinned knees, broken arms or bruised elbows. Likely none of us has reached adulthood

without at least one of the above happening to us — and likely more often than once!

But with smaller children

there is one type of injury which occurs with more frequency than many may imagine.

Injury to the head caused in a fall from, or other accident related to, a crib.

The U. S. Consumer Product

Safety Commission estimates that in 1975 there were 6,900

hospital-emergency room-treated injuries associated with cribs. And of these, 73 per cent

— that's nearly three out of every four — were injuries to the head. (Nine per cent were to the body trunk, 8 per cent to the leg-foot, 7 per cent to the arm-hand, and 3 per cent to other parts of the body.)

In 1974, the commission instituted full-scale crib regulations for all cribs introduced into interstate commerce after Jan. 31. And on Aug. 10, 1976, the commission's requirements for non-full-size baby cribs will go into effect. So if you plan to buy a crib, check to see that it is clearly labeled as one which conforms to applicable regulations promulgated by the USCPSC.

But many people still will be using cribs made before these dates. And there are not yet meaningful statistics to prove that the number of head injuries has been decreased as a result of the commission's new crib regulations. So caution is advised.

Children cannot — and should not — be watched hawked every minute of their growing up lives. But they can be trained with safety in mind, and safety measures can be taken in their behalf.

The commission urges that any child more than 35 inches tall be placed in a youth bed or regular bed. (This caution is required in writing on all cribs sold under the commission's regulations.)

It is important to notice when your child may be growing too big for his crib. Also, when he may become so active that he could jump out of the crib even when both sides are up. Remember that some children can think of a crib mattress as a trampoline — even if they don't yet know the word.

Precautions one could take to help avoid a possible serious head injury is to purchase a crib net, place a soft carpet on the floor by the crib, and see that no sharp-cornered furniture is near the crib. Also, of course, never leave a child alone in a crib when the sides are down.

Some crib-related head injuries are "freak" accidents, difficult to predict or take precaution against. But many others are the result of carelessness or just not considering the danger possibilities... until it may be too late.

If your child does injure his head in a fall from a crib — or in any accident — take him to a hospital immediately. With luck, the injury will be only a bump. But if it's more serious, prompt medical — and possibly neurosurgical — attention could make a lifetime difference.

groom, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers. Mr. and Mrs. Biason, parents of the groom, hosted the rehearsal dinner and a reception was held at Holy Trinity Hall in Madison.

Both young people are graduates of Granite City High School. The bride is employed as a secretary for a St. Louis brokerage firm and her husband is a student at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He also works as a personnel consultant for Metro-Placement Systems.

300 at BPW Club's old-time ice cream social

An old-fashioned ice cream social, sponsored by the Legislation Committee of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, attracted more than 300 members and guests.

The event was hosted on the lawn at the home of Granite City Supt. of Streets and Mrs. Lionel Portell, 2840 Michigan Ave. Mrs. Portell is BPW legislation chairman.

Among the special guests attending were Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, State Representatives Joe Lucio (D-56th District) and Everett G. Steele (R-56th District), Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse and Granite City Aldermen Everett Morlen, First Ward, Roy Paulus, Third Ward and Warren Decatur, Fourth Ward.

The guests launched the afternoon social by icing cakes in various shapes and sizes and helping to churn an old-fashioned ice cream freezer. Gifts were awarded during the event. Among the recipients were Fourth Ward Alderman Glen Sprankle, who received an electric ice cream freezer, and Dr. Kenneth Hillmer, who was awarded a 6-week-old registered German Shorthaired Pointer pup, donated by A. C. Electrical Service Co.

Mrs. Portell said all proceeds from the affair will be used to finance different activities planned by the committee, including a six-week course in practical politics which will be open to the public.

She expressed appreciation to those assisting at the social, including BPW members and friends of the club. Among the latter were her husband, Lionel; Gus Christich, Michael Christich, Dale Portell, Mike Schwallier, Ed Bertrand, Martha Portell, Barb Wood, Bernadine Yurkovich and Tracy Bauer.

Celexhairs of the ice cream social were Mrs. Helen Christich, Mrs. Emylee Alford and Mrs. Edna Kohlbrecher.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS! Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, left, hesitates while making up his mind which cake to choose. Meanwhile, State Rep. Everett G. Steele (R-56th District), center, and Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, right, have no such problem. The Business Women's social was hosted at the home of Mrs. Rosalie Portell, club legislation chairman, 2840 Michigan Ave. Proceeds will be used to finance a practical politics course and similar projects.

TUCKIN' IN homemade ice cream and cake, Granite City Assistant Police Chief George Teller pronounces the fare "delicious" and later enjoyed seconds.

Phone cost rise, possible nationalization unless there is federal law against 'skimming cream' of the business

Among those urging federal telephone legislation is the Illinois Telephone Association. Because every telephone customer in the nation is being affected by an unregulated shift in telecommunication policy, it appears that the proposed new law and accompanying public debate would be helpful.

A de facto change in policy has been going on since the 1968 Carter one decision. A majority of the seven Federal Communications Commissioners has embarked on a series of administrative actions out of phase with the Communications Act of 1934.

The telephone industry—more than 1,600 companies—proposes an amendment to the Communications Act to reaffirm the national goal of universal service, with widest availability, high quality of service and comparatively low cost. It would reaffirm the "natural monopoly" of the interstate telecommunication system and also the jurisdiction of states to regulate terminal and station equipment connected to the phone network.

The telephone industry has 67.6 telephones per hundred population, more than any other nation, and phone service is provided for the equivalent of fewer hours of work per user than in any other developed country.

Price hikes in the last 15 years have averaged only 23 per cent for U.S. telephones, compared to an 81 per cent rise in the consumer price index and a 138 per cent climb in per capita disposable income.

Telephone firms attribute their success in achieving universal service to the concept of keeping basic telephone rates within the reach of virtually every home.

This has involved pricing basic service with one plain black phone as low as possible, while charging enough for optional services to contribute to the overall revenue; emphasis on non-duplication of facilities, rather than, as in the Quad-Cities' two years, having to obtain phones from early or more different companies.

Long-distance calls; and such technological advances as the magnet, common battery, dial, direct distance dialing, satellites and electronic switching.

Phone companies say the FCC has departed from the mandate "to make available, so far as possible, to all the people . . . a rapid, efficient nationwide . . . communications service . . . at reasonable charges." The departure network, leading to higher charges to users and possibly to a government takeover of telecommunications.

It is alleged that the FCC is allowing "cream skimming" in the terminal market through direct connection of terminal equipment without protective devices. Similar "skimming" is said to be occurring in long-distance service through contrived competition: "Competitors can move in on a cost-plus basis in profitable high-volume areas but have no requirement to serve less-profitable low-volume areas."

Commissioners appear to be following an illogical course in favoring competition but not letting one of the parties, the existing phone system, compete through high-volume or low-volume charges. In their decisions, they have proceeded without public debate and without legislative guidance.

The FCC has cited as advantages of its approach that the consumer could buy telephones on the open market at the prevailing market price; could purchase phones rather than lease them; might pay less than today for extra services like extension phones, although the cost of basic service would rise; and might have a wider selection of specialty and exotic style phones.

But on the negative side, all consumers would have to pay more for basic service to make up for revenue lost from optional and long-distance services; rural and small-town customers would be hit hard as their services shift closer to actual cost; telephone instrument repairs would no longer be provided by the telephone company on customer-owned equipment; and no one company would have full end-to-end responsibility.

The United States and Canada are the only nations with private, non-government phone systems. The high service quality and low cost compared to other parts of the world are a strong testimonial for continuing private ownership of the telecommunication services.

Legislative ethics remain the proper issue, not revenge

Press-Record Springfield Bureau—Illinois House of Representatives members appear to be angry and indignant over the fact that some of their colleagues have been convicted of accepting bribes and those who paid the bribes were not prosecuted.

They reacted by passing a resolution 122 to 7 urging the governor to ban from doing business with the state for five years any corporation whose officials admitted to bribing public officials.

A great many people feel that in a bribery case both the person who offers a bribe and one who accepts it is equally guilty. They resent the fact that one party escapes punishment by agreeing to testify for the prosecution.

In defense of the practice of granting immunity from prosecution to witnesses, U. S. Attorney Samuel Skinner said his office would have had no case without testimony from Lester Crown and other officials of Material Service Corp., the company accused of paying bribes to secure enactment of a law to permit heavier concrete hauling trucks on state highways.

So Skinner agreed to exempt Crown and his associates from prosecution; they testified about their payments, and three legislators, two former legislators and a former legislative aide were convicted.

We do not disagree that those who offer bribes should be punished for doing business with the state for a period of time. In fact, when highway contractors were convicted in recent years of conspiring to rig bids on state projects, it was recommended that they be stricken from the state bidders list for at least a year.

What does disturb us is the attitude of many legislators who seem angry over the fact some of their number have been convicted. They seem to want to blame others for what they themselves have done.

"This is poetic justice. It's an appropriate way for the people of Illinois to wreak vengeance on people who corrupt public officials," Rep. Ronald Stearney, R-Chicago, sponsor of the resolution to punish Crown.

Others remind Rep. Stearney and his colleagues that no one corrupts public officials. If they are corrupted, they do it themselves.

The fact that Lester Crown or anyone else offers money to legislators in connection with action on legislation does not obligate the legislators to accept the payment. Honest legislators will reject such money.

Far too often we've heard rumors and allegations about "money bills," those measures in the General Assembly for the passage or defeat of which certain interests expend large sums.

We hope the convictions in the concrete bribery case will have a cleansing effect, will both those willing to pay to get legislative action and those who serve in the General Assembly will be less inclined to involvement in unsavory activity.

It is disturbing that a great many members of the legislature seem more concerned with wreaking revenge against those whose testimony convicted their colleagues than about the low level of ethics that was displayed by those who took bribes and were convicted for it.

Program to evaluate felons

By JOAN MURARO

SPRINGFIELD — A new diagnostic program to evaluate convicted felons will be started by the state Corrections Department soon.

The move will implement a provision of the state's unified code of corrections which until now the department had not been able to afford.

Daniel R. DeVos, chief of program services for the department, said a letter is going to judges throughout the state, notifying them that the department will have available facilities to accept a maximum of 10 men and four women for pre-sentencing evaluations for study.

The men will be sent to the reception and diagnosis center at Joliet. The women will go to Dwight.

Those sent for pre-sentencing evaluations will not be kept for that purpose for more than 60 days.

Corrections Director Allyn R. Sinsler said the new service should "be of some help to the courts, in cases where the defendant's behavior patterns may pose a puzzle for the court."

In many cases, he said, local courts have the facilities to make such studies themselves. They will be encouraged to do so, since local staffs and personnel often can provide the most comprehensive insights into a defendant's background and recommend the most appropriate course for future action.

True, Carter governed only a comparatively small state. Georgia has a population of about 5 million compared to more than 11 million for Illinois.

GOP chances slim on control of legislature

By BOB ESTILL

SPRINGFIELD — If Republicans are having any midsummer's night dreams, they probably don't include visions of taking control of the Illinois legislature.

The GOP prospects for winning a majority in the Nov. 2 general election range from doubtful in the House to highly improbable in the Senate.

Riding the Watergate tide, Democrats emerged from the 1974 election with 54 of the 59 Senate seats and 101 of the 177 House seats. All of the House seats and 40 of the Senate seats are on the line in November.

It appears unlikely the Republicans will make any dent in the Democratic majority in the Senate. But they could capture six to ten more House seats.

It's conceivable Republicans could lose ground in the Senate. There are several districts, including the Sangamon-Montgomery district, where Republicans could be unseated. In the 50th District's incumbent, John Davidson, a freshman, faces a tough challenge from Democrat Richard Durbin, an aide to Senate President Cecil Pate.

Sen. Harber Hall, R-Bloomington, faces an aggressive challenge in former Normal Mayor Carol Reitan. Sen. James Bell, R-Joliet, has an adversary Rep. George Sangmeister, D-Mokena. Another district where the Republicans could be in trouble is the 33rd, where Rep. Max Coffey of Charleston is competing with Hoopston Democrat Richard Doyle for the Senate seat being vacated by Tom Merritt, R-Hoopston.

On the other hand, the Senate districts where Republicans stand to gain a seat are hard to find. One outside possibility is the 31st District where Sen. Robert McCarthy, D-Decatur, faces a well-known Republican, Decatur Mayor James Rupp.

Republican prospects are brighter in the House because they hope districts that usually elect two Republicans but sent two Democrats to Springfield in 1974 will revert to normal in the absence of a Watergate albatross.

The 50th District is among those districts where the Republicans hope to gain back a seat. Two years ago voters elected Douglas Kane to join James Longbrun in the Democratic side of the aisle and Rep. J. David Jones found himself the sole Springfield Republican in the House for the first time since he was elected in 1964. Now Longbrun is running for judge; and Kane and the second Democrat, David Robinson, might as well be on opposite tickets. That gives Justin Taft a good chance of succeeding in his second bid to join Jones.

Republicans have a good chance of regaining second seats in the 52nd (Champaign area), 35th (Freeport in northwestern Illinois), and the 8th and 9th (suburban Cook County) districts. They also have a fair shot in the 49th (from Morgan and Macoupin to Pike and Calhoun counties), the 34th (Rockford), 42nd (Joliet) and 46th (Peoria) districts.

In addition, they should elect one Republican in each of two Chicago districts (the 7th and 18th) that elected three Democrats and no Republicans the last time.

But even if the more optimistic predictions prevail, it seems unlikely Republicans can win 89 votes from pre-school training districts to elect three Democrats and no Republicans the last time. It appears probable that they will get about 82 to 86 votes, not enough to control but sufficient to increase their bargaining power.

National election outcome will have impact on state's finances

By KEN WATSON

SPRINGFIELD — A study of the 1976 Democratic platform and the expressed views of Jimmy Carter has convinced some on the Statehouse scene that a Democratic victory in November would result in some significant changes in the federal-state relationship.

This could be especially so in the case of a major state like Illinois.

The fact that Carter himself is a former governor could have a bearing on probable changes in relations between the federal government and state governments.

If elected President, Carter would be the first former governor to occupy the White House since Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1930s and '40s.

Since Roosevelt, all the presidents have advanced to the office from the United States Congress with the exception of Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had a military background.

As a former governor, Carter could be expected to have a greater knowledge about state government than would a president who had been occupied most of his public life with national matters.

The same situation would hold true should former California Governor Ronald Reagan win the Republican presidential nomination.

True, Carter governed only a comparatively small state. Georgia has a population of about 5 million compared to more than 11 million for Illinois.

Nevertheless, it is large enough to have experienced the problems faced by the major states in Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania and California. Atlanta is one of the nation's fastest growing cities.

What most interests those concerned with state government is Carter's unusually strong embrace of the Democratic platform. He has called it "a binding contract with the American people."

The platform deals in detail with an issue long of deep concern to the states: common school funds.

It calls for a reduction in state costs and a resulting squeeze on finances.

The Democratic platform calls for "fundamental welfare reform" moving toward "a simplified system of income maintenance, substantially financed by the federal government."

As an interim step the platform pledges that cities and local governments should be relieved immediately of all welfare costs, to be followed by a phased reduction of the state's share of welfare costs. This comes close to providing what many in state government believe is the only real solution to the financial troubles confronting Illinois and other major states.

This is the assuming of all welfare costs by the federal government. Relieved of the welfare burden, states could then in turn assume full financing of all school costs, thereby providing relief for local school districts.

This would mean that local taxpayers would be relieved of their major tax burden. Property taxes could either be reduced or the revenue now spent on schools could be used for other community programs.

In Illinois about half of the state budget goes for welfare and education.

In the recently concluded session, Illinois legislators appropriated some $2.5 billion for education ranging from pre-school training through university graduate studies. Most of the money, however, goes to the common school fund.

Government growth could prompt Illinois employers to leave

Illinois has outperformed most other states in economic growth in the entire postwar period, but the pace has slowed substantially since 1967.

This is one of the major conclusions of the comprehensive, nine-month study of the Illinois economy newly released by the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

Findings of the far-ranging study, first of its kind in Illinois, are to be used to alert government, business and labor leaders to conditions which stimulate or retard growth.

Dr. A. James Heins, professor of economics at the University of Illinois, Urbana, conducted the study for the State Chamber.

In his research report, Dr. Heins compared the performance of the Illinois economy, as measured by various key indicators, with the performance of other states since World War II.

The study identifies factors that have been associated with the rate of growth, and analyzes future economic trends along with their implications for government, business and labor.

Implementation of the study is being discussed by a coalition of business, labor, government and academic leaders studying the state's business climate.

The group was organized in May by the State Chamber to develop a long-range program to stimulate economic growth and create new jobs in the state.

Highlights of the study findings:

"Climate has been the most important determinant of relative growth of the states in postwar America. States with warm, stable temperatures grew at a faster pace than states with cool, variable temperatures."

In good measure, climate accounts for the rapid growth of Florida, California, Texas and parts of the South and Southwest generally. Growth in Illinois has been correspondingly slower.

"The Illinois economy performed better than expected in the period 1947-67, given her climatic disadvantages. Income grew at the rate of 5.7 per cent compared with the expected growth rate of 5.5 per cent."

Since 1967, however, the Illinois growth rate of 7.9 per cent has been slower than the expected 8.3 per cent.

Despite a growth rate below the national rate, Illinois continues to be a rich state. It ranked fourth among states in per capita income in 1974, higher than any large, industrial state. Its per capita income of $6,254 exceeded that of Texas by almost $1,300.

"Until 1967, Illinois was a state characterized by low taxes. By 1974, it had become an average tax state. On the way to average, taxes and spending in Illinois increased at a rate faster than that of comparable states and the nation as a whole."

"Illinois spending has increased at the phenomenal annual rate of 21 per cent from 1967 to 1974, compared with a national rate of 16 per cent."

Education spending also grew more rapidly in Illinois, but at a rate that was only 60 per cent of the increase in welfare spending.

"Wages in Illinois have always been above the national average. Since 1967, Illinois wages have been increasing at a more rapid pace than in the nation generally."

"Specific findings about the determinants of economic growth are:

"The states that spent more on public welfare experienced slower rates of growth; education spending was positively associated with growth."

"Beyond that, manufacturing capital has been attracted to those states spending more on education; high corporate income taxes were associated with slower growth rates."

"The most important constituents of government employees, always clamor the loudest for the need for new revenues."

"But if that line can be held for a year or two, there is every reason to believe that reduced demands from a declining support sector will afford us the luxury of a class education system, reasonable welfare programs, and an acquiescent or two without increasing taxes."

"In my moments of wildest imagination, I have perceived a tax relief program does the trick."

"This relationship was not as strong as the education and welfare relationships; high wages are a deterrent to manufacturing investment and growth; work stoppages, union participation and labor market restrictions tend to restrict investment and growth."

"States with higher rates of investment and growth also experienced better than average increases in the standard of living."

"Increasing size of government was associated with slower investment and growth rates, but increasing size appears to have been less important than the purposes for which public monies were spent."

"Future growth in Illinois will depend on her ability to attract capital into manufacturing and mineral resources, particularly coal."

"Considering the Illinois economic experience from 1947 to 1974 in light of the specific findings leads to an inescapable conclusion:

"The increasing size of government since 1967, particularly in its welfare programs, and the corresponding increase in state and local taxes have had the effect of retarding economic growth in Illinois. Higher than average wage increases have reinforced this slowing of growth."

"Illinois is not yet a bad business state, but it could become one if trends of the last nine years continue."

"The implications are clear. If the people of Illinois are to restore full vigor to the economy of the state, they must restrict increases in the activities of their government, both in scope and dimension."

"The benefits of renewed economic vigor are evident; they go to labor and business as well as to the public generally. That fact provides a community of interest in economic growth that must be explored."

"There are implications for the various groups that share that interest."

"The temptation to increase its share of the production pie is great. And it is equally tempting to push the cost of government and business."

"Illinois wages will not be paid by a business that moves to a state where the business climate is better. Nor will it be a business pay Illinois taxes."

"For all of us in our public capacity, we must not push too much of the cost of economic security onto our government."

"Welfare is a laudable public service. It provides for the handicapped and the truly indigent. It acts as a backup against our own deprivation, however unlikely. And it dresses up society."

"But the welfare cost is immense. Potentially productive citizens are attracted into a life of idleness. Idle people not only use public funds but, more importantly, they do not produce the goods and services that give meaning to those funds."

"A prime function of government is education. That is the vehicle to greater productivity and a better life. The findings of this study support that notion."

"This is not to say that every scheme proposed as education reform will work. But good education has the potential to enhance growth."

"To the business community: Illinois has not 'gone to heck in a hand-basket.' Current levels of taxes are not dangerously out of line with other states."

"If current trends of increasing government activity are reversed, Illinois can restore its position as a good business state. It has an educated labor force, productive resources, and a tradition of production. This is a good base for future economic expansion."

"In the political arena, these forces manifest themselves as battles over the division of the public budget between the various sectors of government, or battles over the likelihood of a tax increase."

"The most important constituents of government employees, always clamor the loudest for the need for new revenues."

"But if that line can be held for a year or two, there is every reason to believe that reduced demands from a declining support sector will afford us the luxury of a class education system, reasonable welfare programs, and an acquiescent or two without increasing taxes."

"In my moments of wildest imagination, I have perceived a tax relief program does the trick."

GC Park pre-school registration Tuesday

Registration for the Granite City Park District's Pre-School Program will take place Tuesday at the Wilson Park office.

Pre-schoolers, who will attain the age of 4 years before Oct. 1, 1976, and who are residents of the Granite City Park District, may be registered between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Proof of residency, such as a receipted utility bill, and the child's birth certificate are required when registering.

A $2 insurance fee is necessary to take part in the program and each youngster is expected to bring 25 cents per day to help defray the cost of juice and cookies.

Children may attend two afternoon and two morning sessions each week. Classes again will be held at the Nameoki Recreation Center, Amos and Franklin Avenues. The fall-winter pre-school program will begin in mid-September. A precise date has not yet been announced.

Lottery winnings still unclaimed

Persons holding winning Illinois state lottery tickets who have not yet claimed their winnings are being reminded they have only one year from the date of the winning drawing to claim their prize money, and many have not yet done so.

A list of unclaimed winning numbers was issued by the state last week. The lottery was two years old Sunday and more than $2.5 million in unclaimed prize money has been turned over to the general revenue fund of the state, Ralph F. Bitch, lottery superintendent noted.

Unclaimed winning numbers, by date, follow.

Return from convention

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel (Binn) Valencia and Mr. and Mrs. Regard (Mary) Mennerick, all of Granite City, have returned from Philadelphia after attending the candlelight procession through the streets of Philadelphia marked the theme of the Congress on "The Hungers of Man," both physical and spiritual.

The following day, both couples attended the Congress for an all-day session which consisted of talks by many prominent people and visiting displays and booths of different phases of Catholicism from all over the world.

Although many different faiths are beginning their own expressions of marriage encounter the movement is largely a Roman Catholic experience. It is one of the fastest growing movements within the church averaging 80,000 couples annually. Its aims are to renew marriages and to deepen spirituality, according to the local group.

They added one highlight of the weekend for them was to personally meet the Rev. Chuck Gallagher, S.J., of New York who is the prime developer of the worldwide movement, and who many couples in this area know through his books and writings.

The final mass was celebrated by Cardinal John Wright of the Pittsburgh diocese, who is Prefect of the Sacred Congregation of the Clergy.

Each mass was celebrated with approximately 400 priests.

Teaching tricycle safety may avert many accidents

By DARLENE HEER

County Extension Adviser

Each year more than 12,400 children sustain tricycle-related injuries serious enough to require hospital emergency room treatment.

Many potential injuries can be eliminated by parents selecting the right tricycle for the child and teaching the child how to use it safely.

Match the size of your child to the size of the tricycle. If the child is too large for the tricycle, it will be unstable and thus more likely to tip over. If the child is too small, he may not be able to control the tricycle properly.

Low-slung tricycles with seats close to the ground offer more stability, choose a tricycle with widely spaced wheels.

Rough surfaces on pedals and handgrips help prevent the child's hands and feet from slipping.

The final point in selecting the tricycle is to avoid any with sharp edges, especially on or along fenders.

Unlike most other wheeled vehicles, a tricycle has no brakes. So it is especially important that parents teach children safe riding habits.

These include:

Caution your child against riding double. A tricycle is quite unstable with two riders.

Try to teach that riding down hills is dangerous. A tricycle can pick up so much speed that it becomes almost impossible for the child to stop it.

Teach your child to avoid sharp turns, to make all turns at low speed and not to ride down steps or over curbs.

Warn your child about keeping hands and feet away from moving spokes.
